Local Croatian Community to Build Church

The Most Rev. Bishop Hugh L. Lamb, of the Greensburg Catholic Diocese, has approved the erection of a new church by the Monessen Croatian Catholic community, it was announced today by the Rev. Theodore Benkovic, O. F. M., pastor.

The church, which will be named St. Anthony of Padua, will be the first for local Croatian Catholics. They have been using St. Hyacinth Church for services and will continue to do so until the new church is erected.

Father Benkovic said the new church, to be built in the 1100 block of Leeds avenue, will be a simple one-story concrete block type. Later, he said, the community plans to build a larger church and then use the concrete structure as a social hall.

He said the new building will include an altar and pews to seat ablut 300 persons. He estimated the cost at $50,000. H. Ernest Clark, local architect, is preparing the plans. Construction will start immediately after the plans are approved by the pastor and congregation.

Father Benkovic, who has been head of the local Croatian Catholics the past five years, said about 100 families belong to the community at present.

Streamliner Hits Truck at RR Crossing

GALION, O. (UP) — The Xplorer, the New York Central Railroad's newest streamliner in Ohio, rammed into a truck loaded with steel at a crossing here Thursday but no one was seriously injured.

The impact pushed the big tractor-trailer truck 50 feet, throwing it from the track and damaging five autos parked outside of the Hercules-Galion Products plant.

Engineer T. M. Krauss, of Rocky River, was taken to Galion Memorial Hospital for observation and the truck driver, Tony Lombardo, of New Castle, Pa., was treated for minor cuts.

The train, which runs daily from Cleveland to Cincinnati, was delayed two and one-half hours in reaching Columbus while crews replaced the damaged locomotive.

Galion officials said the accident occurred at an unprotected crossing which has been a center of controversy between the city and railroad.

The Ohio Public Utilities Commission ordered the New York Central to install flasher lights and was upheld in its decision only 10 days ago after the railroad appealed to the Ohio Supreme Court.

Diabetic Pill Is Recognized

NEW YORK (UP)—A newly developed tablet for treatment of diabetes has proved "uniformly successful" in reducing the blood sugar level of the most common type of diabetic scientists said today.

The drug, a distant cousin of sulfa, is called Tolbutamide by chemists and is manufactured under the trade name, Orinase, by the Upjohn Company.

Scientists who conducted research on Tolbutamide believe it may be the answer to the long search for an oral drug that can take the place of insulin which diabetics must take by injection.

The reports were made to a conference on diabetes sponsored by the New York Academy of Science.

The transaction is subject to the approval of the Washington Township Supervisors, who must enact an ordinance to make the purchase final.

Last December the Authority purchased the Fayette City Water Co. for $360,000.

The purchase price of the Roscoe Company was announced as $315,000.

The money for the purchase of both companies will be raised through the sale of approximately $900,000 in water revenue bonds, according to the Authority solicitor, John E. Costello, of Charleroi. He said no tax money will be involved. All bonds must be redeemed through water revenues.

To Augment Lines

Costello said the approximately $225,000 remaining after the purchase of the two companies will be used to augment present water lines in the Roscoe area. The Roscoe firm furnishes water for Roscoe, Stockdale, Elco and Allenport. The authority plans to extend water lines into the Gillespie area.

An authority spokesman said there will be no change in personnel at the Roscoe Company. George Hancock will be retained as superintendent.

James Hamer is general superintendent of both the Fayette City and Roscoe Water companies. He will continue in these positions.

The Roscoe firm serves some 1,100 customers. Its biggest customer is the Allenport plant of Pittsburgh Steel Co.

Officers of the Authority include Joseph Buza, president; John Stump, secretary-treasurer; Louis Weiss, vice-president; Charles Sadowski, assistant secretary-treasurer, and John J. Wozniak. Costello is the solicitor.

Present supervisors who must approve the purchases are Michael Mutich, Charles Pabis and Jerry Weiss.

Not Enough Is Being Spent On Education

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UP — A prominent educator said Thursday that not enough money was being spent on education. He said the nation is short 135,000 qualified teachers and will be short 400,000 classrooms by 1965.

Dr. Taylor T. Hicks, Prescott, Ariz., president of the National School Board's Association, said $10-billion was spent on education last year.

But he said $32-billion was spent for private automobiles and $1-billion on alcoholic beverages.

Hicks, speaking at the opening session of the association's 17th annual convention, said an economy that can stand such annual expenditures for drinks and cars "does not dare plead it cannot afford more money for its public schools."

Doctors Study Law to Compel Polio Vaccine

HARRISBURG (UP) — The executive director of the Pennsylvania Medical Society says the organization's executive board will consider at a meeting March 6-7 a proposed law making anti-polio vacination mandatory for school children.

Lester E. Perry, the society official, said no decision will be made before that time. House Speaker W. Stuart Helm announced Thursday that the mandatory vaccine bill will be introduced in the Pennsylvania General Assembly next week.

The proposed legislation, sponsored by Reps. Marian E. Markley (R-Lehigh) and James J. Jump (R-Luzerne) would amend the public school code to require a certificate of immunization for admittance to any private, parochial or public school in Pennsylvania after Sept. 1, 1957.

At Pittsburgh, Dr. Arthur G. Baker, director of the Allegheny County Medical Department, said he questions the "feasability" of the mandatory legislation.

Dr. Baker, a leader in Allegheny County's drive to have every resident inoculated with Salk vaccine, said not only the public health aspects, but the "broader connotations" of mandatory legislation must be considered.

The public health expert said he preferred educational programs aimed at getting the public to "use all preventative medicines. He pointed out that the only immunization now mandatory for school children in the state is for small pox.

Small pox, he said, is a highly contagious disease and it is desirable to have large segments of the population immunized to prevent epidemic spread of the disease.

In the case of polio, Dr. Baker said, Salk vaccine does not stop the passing of the virus from person to person, but only prevents the crippling aspect of the disease. Consequently, he said, it is "highly desirable" to have everyone protected against the paralytic effects of polio.

Airman Jumps From Bomber; Is Rescued

SAVANNAH, Ga. (UP)—An Air Force officer parachuted from a B47 jet bomber into the Atlantic Ocean east of here today and officers at Hunter Air Force Base said he was rescued shortly afterwards.

Capt. Charles E. Stewart, an observer aboard the plane, ejected himself from the plane by means of an automatic ejector mechanism after a fire broke out in the tail section of the B47.

The public information officer at Hunter said it had word that Stewart was plucked from the water by a Navy or Coast Guard craft. Military planes and vessels and at least two commercial ships sped to the area when word of the missing airman was received.

The B47 landed safely at Hunter Air Force Base, its home base, after circling the field to burn up its fuel supply and avoid the danger of fire on landing. The small fire in the rear part of the plane either blew itself out or was extinguished.

Two Hurt; 30 Homes In Clinton, Tenn. Damaged by Dynamite

CLINTON, Tenn. (UP) — An explosion rocked a Negro section of this racially troubled town Thursday night, slightly injuring two persons and damaging 30 homes and a Negro restaurant.

It was the second incident of race-connected violence here in less than a week. Last Saturday, a young Army veteran was severely beaten for defending the principal of integrated Clinton High School in an argument.

Police said the blast, the eighth since Clinton's publicized school integration riots, apparently was from a dynamite-crammed suitcase left on a sidewalk in the Foley Hill community where most of the Negro high school students live.

Five of the seven Negroes still attending Clinton High stayed home today. The other two, both boys, said the absent students were concerned about the dynamiting.

Attack Is Probed

Negro witnesses said one occupant of a crowded car placed the suitcase on a sidewalk near the home of Alfred Williams, 21-year-old Negro student who recently was suspended from school for striking a 15-year-old white boy.

The explosion occurred while police still were investigating an attack on Norris Johnson, 22, a veteran attending the high school and working as a part-time clerk in the office of Principal D. J. Brittain Jr.

The witnesses said they believed the man who got out of the car was white.

One Negro said he "smelled the fuse" burning in the suitcase and ran. Seconds later, the explosion occurred, bringing Negro families rushing from their homes. Injured were an 11-month-old girl and a 39-year-old woman. They were not hospitalized.

Several homes were badly damaged. Many had smashed porches, roofs and windows.

Reporter Jim Loggans of the Clinton Courier-News, said that when he returned to the area a short while after the explosion, "There was not a sound. Everyone was hid away in the houses, all locked, without any lights showing. But you could tell they were all awake."

Cieply, executive manager of the Chamber of Commerce, who praised the Troop for its part in the City-wide flag project and Vincent LaRiccia, Post 1190 commander, who gave the address of welcome.

New Scouts were initiated and a skit was presented. Parents were in attendance.

A dinner was served by members of the VFW Auxiliary.

Buried Treasure Found in Park At Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Three GI's, police, and three teenaged boys spent the night digging up buried "treasure" in Swisshelm Park in suburban Swissvale Borough. With the aid of mine detectors and shovels, they recovered about $5,000 in booty.

The boys were the pirates who admitted stealing quantities of cash, rings, watches and other jewelry from Edgewood and Swissvale homes. Picked up by Swissvale police Wednesday, the youngsters confessed the thefts and said they had buried most of the loot in the park but had forgotten to map the exact location.

Police got busy with spades but had little luck until Swissvale Chief Peter Beggs and Edgewood Chief Fred Laughlin contacted the Army Ordnance Group Unit on Neville Island.

Three sergeants arrived with electronic mine detectors and the treasurer expedition really began getting results. At 2 a.m. one of the detectors began to buzz when it passed near a tree. Digging at the spot produced a jeweler's box with $1,400 and a $500 ring.

Later on, additional rings, watches and jewelry worth about $3,000 were revealed.

Meanwhile the boys — two 15-year-olds and one 16—mentioned they got "lots of bonds" with the other loot. But not knowing what to do with them, they had thrown the bonds down sewers.

County Burglar Goes Home; Is Nabbed by Police

CLEARFIELD, Pa. (UP)—A 20-year-old Westmoreland County burglar, who escaped from the Clearfield County jail five days ago, was back behind bars again today because he apparently decided to go home.

The youthful jail-breaker, Frank Smoker, was spotted hiding in a woods along Route 30 in Unity Twp., Westmoreland County Thursday night by Thomas Hewitt, personnel director of a Latrobe firm. The fugitive was only a few miles from his home at Whitney.

Hewitt took Smoker to a nearby restaurant and called state police who held the escaper until a Clearfield County officer arrived and took him back to the jail from which he fled after he and another inmate attacked a turnkey with an iron bar. The other inmate was subdued.

Smoker had completed all but six months of an 18-month sentence when he escaped.

NYC Inquiry Into Collision

CLEVELAND, Ohio (UP)—Officials of the New York Central Railroad held a closed-door inquiry Thursday into the collision of a passenger and a freight train in which a locomotive engineer was killed near Ripley, N.Y., last week.

Members of the crews of the two trains testified at the five-hour hearing, which was attnded by representatives of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the New York Public Utilities Commission and railroad unions.

A NYC official said most of the testimony taken will be disclosed when the ICC opens a formal hearing at Buffalo next Wednesday on the accident.

Harry S. Truman

Truman Asked to Visit Greece And Turkey

WASHINGTON (UP) — Former President Truman is considering an informal invitation to visit Greece and Turkey early next month, it was learned today. President Eisenhower has warmly endorsed the idea of such a visit.

Mr. Truman has been asked by the two nations whether he would attend ceremonies commemorating the 10th anniversary of his historic Truman Doctrine, under which U.S. aid was given Greece and Turkey to combat Communism.

The idea of asking the former President to make the trip originated in Athens and Ankara. But Mr. Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles have given the proposal their strong endorsement.

Healing Move Launched

Behind-the-scenes liaison on the Truman trip indicates that a major move is underway to heal the foreign policy breach between the Republican and Democratic parties.

Mr. Truman on at least two occasions has given his warm approval to the Eisenhower Doctrine aimed at saving the Middle East from Communism. He has urged that Congress give speedy approval to the program and has said he would vote for it if he were a member of the Senate.

Mr. Truman, it was learned, first heard of the proposed invitation Monday night when Dulles, with Mr. Eisenhower's approval, telephoned Mr. Truman at Islamorada in the Florida Keys. Mr. Tru-

Two Named to State Positions

HARRISBURG (UP) — State Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro today announced the appointment of Edward G. Benz, Philadelphia, and William V. Bruton, Haverton, to $7,407 a year jobs in the department.

Benz will serve as a nursing service consultant, supervising the improvement and coordination of nursing in the state institutions for the mentally ill and retarded. Bruton will be chief consultant in institutional standards offering recommendations to both state and private hospitals on bettering the care of patients.

Kirk's in Business 54 Years; Closes Tomorrow

One of the oldest retail business institutions in Monessen, Kirk's Drug Stores, will close its doors tomorrow evening at 6 o'clock.

There are two Kirk stores, one at Fourth street and Donner avenue and the other at Sixth street and Reed avenue. Both will cease doing business.

James Kirk, son of the founder, the late W. P. Kirk, owns the stores and said he is in the process of selling all equipment. He said his future plans are indefinite.

The elder Mr. Kirk opened the Fourth street store at its present site in 1903. Several years later the store was moved across the street until the present building was erected. The store opened at the present location in 1913.

The Sixth street store opened in 1914. The Kirk family operated this store until 1941 when it was sold to George Saylor. The family bought it back in 1953.

The younger Kirk has been associated with the stores since 1927 and took over the ownership when his father retired in 1953. The elder Mr. Kirk died in January, 1956.

The present owner became a pharmacist at the stores in 1932, a year after graduating from the University of Pittsburgh Pharmacy School. With the exception of two years, 1946-47, when he was in business in Florida, Kirk has been with the stores 28 years.

He said that hundreds of persons were employed at the stores at one time or other, stating, "Soda jerking in our stores was the first job for many a Monessen person."

The closing of the Sixth street store, located directly across the street from Monessen High School, will mark the end of a gathering place for students. The Sixth street store had been a mecca for generations of Monessen residents.

Kirk and his wife and two children, William, 21, and Judy, 16, are residents of Uniontown, moving there from Monessen this year.

Shepilov Fired; Gromyko Named As Successor

MOSCOW (UP) — The Soviet Union dropped Dmitri T. Shepilov as foreign minister today after only nine months in office — the nine months of Hungary and Poland. Andrei Gromyko was promoted to replace him.

The action was taken following secret meetings of the Soviet Communist Party Central Committee Wednesday and Thursday.

Shepilov, 51, former editor of the Communist Party organ Pravda, replaced V. M. Molotov only last June. The new foreign minister was first deputy to both men.

Shepilov now becomes one of the eight secretaries of the Communist Party Central Committee under Party Chief Nikita S. Khrushchev.

The official Tass news agency announcement of Shepilov's removal gave no reason for the sudden government change. It said only that he was "released" in connection with a transfer to other work.

Gromyko Well Known

Nikolai S. Patolichev was named to take over Gromyko's former spot as first deputy foreign minister.

Shepilov generally was associated with Soviet policy in the Middle East. It was his visit to Cairo while still editor of Pravda which preceded agreements for shipment of Communist arms to Egypt.

The new foreign minister, Gromyko, is well known to the West. He spoke for the Soviet Union in many of the major United Nations debates in New York. He also has attended most of the international conferences since World War II.

The Tass news agency announcement said:

"The U.S.S.R. Supreme Soviet Presidium has relieved Shepilov of the duties of U.S.S.R. foreign minister in connection with his transfer to other work.

"The U.S.S.R. Supreme Soviet Presidium has appointed Gromyko U.S.S.R. foreign minister.

"The U.S.S.R. Council of Ministers (cabinet) has appointed Patolichev first deputy U.S.S.R. foreign minister."

Shepilov's last major task as foreign minister was his foreign policy report to the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) last week. It was then that he launched the new Soviet "hands off" doctrine for the Middle East, generally interpreted as Moscow's counter to the Eisenhower Doctrine.

His two-hour address was the highlight of this year's first.

Pastolichev, Gromyko's successor as number two man in the foreign ministry, was a deputy foreign minister.

The shakeup came as a complete surprise to Moscow observers who recalled the starring role played by Shepilov at the meeting of the Supreme Soviet.

Shepilov had been regarded as the leading Communist spokesman on foreign policy even before he was named to replace Molotov on June 24, 1956.

That was the day before President Tito of Yugoslavia arrived triumphantly in Moscow to seal what was then regarded as a ma-

Atomic Power Exhibit to Show Here Tomorrow

The day when atomic power plants are commonplace, in America at least, may be far off. But Monessen residents can see how such plants will operate when they visit the "Atoms for Peace" exhibit here tomorrow.

Sponsored by the Jaycees, the exhibit will be displayed in front of Mellon Bank downtown from 9 to 11 a. m. There is no admission charge.

The exhibit is one of the latest developed by the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission as part of its many programs aimed at informing the general public of the ever-increasing role the new force of nuclear energy is playing in our daily lives.

One of the timely displays in the "Atoms for Peace" exhibit is an animated panel, operated by the spectator himself, showing simply and graphically how a nuclear reactor, using atomic fuel, can produce heat that is used to convert water into steam, just as in a standard furnace. The steam, in turn, activates an ordinary turbine, resulting in the production of electrical power.

Power reactors are already in use in the submarine "Nautilus" and a prototype of the forthcoming "Seawolf." Construction is under way in Pennsylvania, California, and Michigan on atomic power plants that will serve as contributory sources of electric power in their local areas, and almost a dozen more are in the planning stage.

And although each of them may differ from the other in design, construction, and function, the basic principle of operation will probably be close to that demonstrated in the "Atoms for Peace" model.

MacArthur in Tokyo to Serve As Ambassador

TOKYO (UP) — Douglas MacArthur arrived today to become U.S. ambassador to Japan, the nation his uncle ruled for nearly six postwar years.

When the new ambassador stepped off the plane, it marked the return to Japan of a name missing since President Truman relieved General MacArthur of his command in April, 1951.

On hand to meet MacArthur, his wife Laura and daughter, Mimi, were American and Japanese officials, headed by U.S. Charge D'Affaires Outerbridge Horsey and Kaoru Hayashi, chief of the Foreign Office protocol section. Acting Prime Minister and Foreign Minister Nobusuke Kishi was not at the airport.

The problems which lay ahead of 47-year-old Ambassador MacArthur when he landed at Tokyo International Airport were far different than those which faced General MacArthur when he first arrived at Atsuigi Airport in August, 1945.

It is highly likely that the entire field of U.S.-Japanese relations will be reviewed, particularly since there are several pending issues which could put a strain on mutual friendship.

Educational Changes Coming

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Dr. Eric A. Walker, president of Pennsylvania State University, said Thursday night higher education in the United States will be revolutionized in the next 15 years.

Industrial progress, with automation as its base, will be needing more and more highly educated people who presently are in critically short supply, he said.

To help fill this need, he told a testimonial dinner in his honor, colleges and universities must concentrate on getting the superior high school graduate who fails to go to college.

He said "some very good things" are being done, notably by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation and the National Science Foundation.

"Such programs are extremely valuable," he said. "They can never be completely satisfactory, however, until the business of identifying superior intellectual material is systematized. We cannot salvage superior students unless we know who they are."

The testimonial dinner was sponsored by Allegheny County Penn State alumni.

Waterfront Strike Is Critical

NEW YORK (UP)—The East Coast's four-day waterfront strike entered a critical phase today with shippers and longshoremen haggling over fine print details of a new contract.

Optimism over quick settlement of the walkout that has crippled shipping from Maine to Virginia evaporated Thursday night when the International Longshoremen's Union (ind.) failed to reach agreement on the shippers "final" offer.

The independent union's wage scale committee which represents 45,000 striking stevedores said it would continue discussion of the unsettled issues today.

"Within Kissing Distance"

Before the wage scale committee recessed the meeting shortly before midnight, federal negotiator Robert Moore had said the shippers and longshoremen were "within kissing distance."

"If there is no settlement tonight, we are very apt to find ourselves in a deadlocked situation," Moore said.

Alexander Chopin, a spokesman for the shippers, blamed the ILA's leadership for failure to end the walkout that has caused a rail embargo on perishable food and diverted some ships from New York harbor.

"If they can get enough unity to get a contract, we could make a contract," Chopin said.

But the ILA denied a lack of unity existed and threatened to prove it by involving, if necessary, longshoremen of another union on the West Coast.

A spokesman for Harry Bridges' West Coast Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, which was expelled from the CIO several years ago on the grounds that it was Communist-dominated, said his group "reserved the right" to strike in sympathy with the ILA.

The threat of a fuel crisis as a result of another waterfront strike, the 15-day-old walkout of tugboatmen, was eased somewhat Thursday when four-ocean-going tankers arrived with 16 million gallons of oil.

State GOP Cool to Stassen

Some Are Reported Surprised

HARRISBURG (UP) — State Republican leaders today gave a generally cool reception to fresh reports that Harold E. Stassen, White House disarmament advisor, may make the race for the Pennsylvania governorship next year.

Reaction ranged from opposition to surprise that Stassen may feel there is a boom for him underway in the Keystone State. Some other influential GOP figures felt that it was too early to discuss gubernatorial candidates.

Without support of the state Republican organization any candidate would have a difficult time to win the party's nomination at the 1958 primary.

Stassen, attending a meeting in Cincinnati, O. Thursday, refused to comment on a New York Times report that he will resign as President Eisenhower's disarmament adviser to campaign. He is a former governor of Minnesota but maintained a residence in Pennsylvania after he became president of the University of Pennsylvania.

But last month Stassen said he was approached by some Pennsylvania Republicans, Eisenhower Democrats and independents to run for governor.

Republican State Chairman George I. Bloom said today he "heard nothing about any active support" for Stassen's possible candidacy.

"Since the first rumors began about three weeks ago several persons have mentioned them to me when they dropped into the office now and then but no one has been importuning me about supporting the movement," Bloom said. "I understand that there was a report in the New York Times to that effect but I have not yet seen it and know of it only by heresay."

Eligibility Questioned

Bloom, former administrative assistant to U. S. Sen. Edward Martin, raised a question as to whether Stassen could qualify for the candidacy under Pennsylvania law.

"While true that he came here in 1948 to take the presidency of the University of Pennsylvania, he was a delegate to the presidential convention from Minnesota in 1952," he said. "That seems to indicate to me that he wished to continue being considered a resident of Minnesota. Of course following the election he did establish voting residency in Pennsylvania and he may meet the residency requirements now."

The state Constitution stipulates that no person is eligible to the office of governor "unless he has been for seven years next preceding his election an inhabitant of the state, unless he has been absent on the public business of the United States or this state."

James F. Malone, Jr., Pittsburgh, incoming president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association and an influential figure in GOP circles, said he was not for a Stassen candidacy because "there are many men who have been residents of Pennsylvania longer than Stassen who are more capable of being governor."

From the other end of the state, Philadelphia Republican Chairman Wilbur H. Hamilton said his organization was "concentrating all of its efforts to win the 1957 municipal election" in the Wuaker City.

"We are not giving any thought to any candidate for statewide office next year," Hamilton said. "We just want to win the elections here this year. After next November we will be in a better position to think about any possible candidacy for the U.S.Senate governor, lieutenant governor and secretary of internal ffairs."

Lias' Request For Meeting Denied by Judge

WHEELING, W. Va. (UP)—U.S. District Judge Harry E. Watkins today refused a request by William G. Lias for permission to hold a spring meeting at Wheeling Downs, Lias' race track which the government forced into receivership.

Watkins affirmed a Nov. 30 ruling against the meet, despite the contention of Lias' counsel that the prior deicsion was based on insufficient financial data on the past spring meetings at the Wheeling Island track.

"Nothing has been presented here today that has caused me to change my views," Watkins said after hearing arguments by John E. Laughlin Jr., Lias' attorney, and Homer R. Miller, special representative of the U.S. Dept. of Justice

"We will abide by the original decision and there will be no spring meeting at Wheeling Downs."

Oil Map Suspect Pleads Innocent At Arraignment

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Edward Lieberman, one of four men indicted on conspiracy charges in the theft of Gulf Oil survey maps, pleaded innocent today at a federal court arraignment.

Lieberman, 30, of New York City, was president of the U.S. Tackless Corp., Bronx firm where quantities of the maps stolen from Gulf headquarters here were recovered in an FBI raid last Dec. 18.

Col. Odie R. Seagraves, 70, a Texas oil promoter indicted in the case, was unable to appear at the arraignment as scheduled because he is hospitalized at St. Luke's Hospital in New York. His attorney, Parnell Callahan, said Seagraves was expected to undergo surgery for gall stones and his doctors forbade travel at this time.

Callahan assured federal Judge Joseph L. Willson Seagraves "wanted to come" here and declared the Texan would fight the charges. The attorney described Seagraves as a man who conducted "all his dealings honestly.

Willson ordered Lieberman's bail of $5,000 continued pending trial of the case.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Hubert I. Teitelbaum advised the court that he would seek to have Lieberman's brother, Emanuel Lester, 32 presently serving a prison term in New York for extortion, brought to Pittsburgh for arraignment.

The fourth defendant, Irving Milner, a Houston geologist, still is a fugitive. Teitelbaum said. Milner was last reported hiding out in Canada.

man is vacationing there with Mrs. Truman.

Dulles informed Mr. Truman that the Greek and Turkish governments would like to invite him to visit the two countries for the anniversary ceremonies. The week of March 10 was suggested for the ceremonies.

Mr. Truman was reported to have expressed "interest" in the proposed trip. But he was unable to give a quick answer because of an already heavy schedule which would have to be rearranged.

Dulles followed up the telephone inquiry with a formal letter to the former President.

Stassen Move Is Called Ridiculous

WASHINGTON (UP) — Rep. James E. Van Zandt (R-Pa) said today Harold E. Stassen would "get the surprise of his life" if he tries for the Republican nomination for governor of Pennsylvania next year.

Van Zandt made his comment after hearing reports that Stassen plans to resign as White House disarmament adviser next year to run for governor in his adopted state.

Stassen declined comment on the reports. He has maintained legal residence in Pennsylvania since he became President of the University of Pennsylvania after failing to win the 1948 GOP presidential nomination. He is a native of Minnesota and already has served as governor of that state.

Thinks It Ridiculous

Van Zandt said he thought it would be "ridiculous" for Stassen to try for the Pennsylvania governorship. He described Stassen as a friend but said he favored a "native son" for the 1958 guvernatorial nomination.

He said there are upwards of 10 million people in Pennsylvania, including many who know more about the state's problems than Stassen.

"If we can't select someone who knows more about the state than he does, then we're politically bankrupt," Van Zandt said.

Stassen became persona non grata with many Republicans last year when he campaigned to prevent the renomination of Vice President Richard M. Nixon. He became a target for more criticism recently when he said he thought the GOP would have won control of Congress last year if Nixon had not been on the ticket

Says GOP United

Van Zandt said he did not believe Stassen would be a dividing force in the Pennsylvania GOP because all factions have been united in the present party organization.

But "in a primary, I think he would get the surprise of his life," Van Zandt said.

Along with the governorships in New York, New Jersey and several other populous states, the Pennsylvania statehouse will be a major target for the GOP in the next two years. Pennsylvania Republicans lost the governorship in 1954 and a U.S. Senate seat last year while President Eisenhower easily carried the state.

Washington County DA Fires Back at Campaign by Judge

Washington County District Attorney Michael A. Hanna yesterday fired back at Judge George T. Cummins' campaign to link drinking and crime and to try to take steps to stop it.

Obviously perturbed by the judge's constant questioning of defendants on the drinking question and his orders and requests for investigations and arrests, Hanna said:

"I will not persecute and prosecute honest businessmen on the word of criminals—thieves, liars, burglars and other criminals," he said.

Hanna evidently was referring to the most recent instance which happened in court yesterday morning. Judge Cummins took the pleas of four of five members of a gang which committed a series of burglaries in and near Canonsburg last November.

He questioned them about whether they were intoxicated at the time and when the defendants said they were, the court asked if they would be willing to testify against the operators of two bars in Canonsburg.

At their assent, Judge Cummins requested that Canonsburg Chief of Police Norbert K. Lesnakowski investigate the places and make out informations against the owners.

Hanna said during the afternoon:

"This is not a case of minors drinking in a place that habitually serves them. These are adults and they feel it will act in mitigation of their sentences.

"Burglaries are planned and executed by men who are not drunk—there was deliberate planning and these plans were deliberately carried out." Hanna said about the burglaries of the quartet who pleaded in the morning

"It is not fair to the honest businessmen of Washington County that enforcement officers should arrest exclusively on the word of thieves and inveterate criminals.

"I personally do not believe these men. I do not intend to make arrests except on testimony of creditable witnesses and reliable witnesses. My office is doing everything possible to apprehend individuals and businesses serving minors and we are enforcing the law in clubs to the limit as well as in other places.

To Hit Violators

"I repeat, I will not prosecute or arrest licensed establishments except on sufficient evidence and reliable witnesses. I will continue, however, my campaign against any and all those liquor places where they violate the law against serving to minors, particularly and against all liquor violations as well."

Hanna added that his office is working in cooperation with the Liquor Control Board and the State Police in its efforts to patrol liquor establishments and that he felt the checking system was working well.

Ike Retreating In the Senate Over Doctrine

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower is retreating in the Senate but apparently still hopes for eventual victory in getting a strong version of his Middle East doctrine through Congress.

Mr. Eisenhower, accepting the advice of Senate Republican leaders, decided Thursday night to forego a major battle and accept a watered-down Democratic version of his resolution in the Senate.

Senate GOP leaders, it was disclosed today, had warned the President that if he did not accept the Democratic modifications, there would be a prolonged and possibly disastrous Senate floor fight which could weaken the impact of the Middle East plan aboard.

Revision Omits "Authority"

The Democratic version, approved by the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees, omits the specific "authority" the President had sought from Congress to use U.S. troops to combat any Communist aggression in the Middle East.

Instead, it states that this country is "prepared to use armed forces to assist" any Mideast nation threatened by Communist attack if the President determines the necessity thereof."

The House already has approved overwhelmingly the President's original request.

But in heeding the GOP leaders' warning about the situation in the Senate, the temporary White House at Thomasville, Ga., issued a statement Thursday night which said:

"The President feels that the Senate committees' text is intended and designed to accomplish the purposes outlined by the President. .He hopes that the Senate will act promptly and approve these purposes by a decisive vote."

Stronger Wording Still Sought

While the statement did not say so flatly, it left this impression: That Mr. Eisenhower would accept the weaker Senate resolution if it is the best to be had, but hopes that the final version to emerge from Congress—which will be worked out in a Senate-House conference committee — will be a stronger one.

The Senate is expected to begin debate Monday on the modified Democratic resolution. But even with the President's retreat, debate will be long. It was learned that there will be no early agreements to limit debate and to fix a voting time by unanimous consent.

Welder Earns $8,960 for Idea

LESTER, Pa. (UP) — Robert Bellar, 56, of Essington, Delaware County, a welder at the steam division plant of Westinghouse Corp. received a final check Thursday in payment of an $8,960 suggestion award that broke a company mark set only last year.

Bellar, who works in the large turbine department, earned the money for recommending that extension pieces at each steam inlet sleeve could be made integral with the turbine cylinder casting.

His suggestion resulted in an improved product and a significant reduction in the welding time necessary for each cylinder.

The previous highest award was $7,786, shared by two employes.

Adenauer to Visit The United States

BONN, Germany (UP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will visit the United States some time after the NATO council session at the beginning of May, it was announced officially today.

The NATO council meeting is scheduled to take place in Bonn May 2-5.

The forthcoming visit will be Adenauer's fifth to the United States.

House Committee Begins Work on Record Budget

WASHINGTON (UP) — The House Appropriations Committee got off to a slow start today in its announced effort to cut heavily into President Eisenhower's record $71.8 billion peacetime budget.

Approving the first regular appropriation bill of the current Congress, the committee trimmed $80,364,000 off administration requests for $3,965,291,000 for the Treasury, Post Office and U.S. Tax Court in the 12 months starting July 1. The cuts amounted to about 2 per cent.

Committee members have been clamoring for substantial slashes in the budget. They explained somewhat sorrowfully that the first money bill did not offer a fair test for their efforts since the agencies involved simply aren't subject to much cutting.

The committee imposed minor cuts throughout the bill. But in every major category the appropriations provided were bigger than for the current fiscal year.

The committee—as in the past—viewed with alarm the continued deficit operation of the Post Office. It renewed its recommendation that postal rates be raised to levels "more appropriate to the costs."

Population at 170 Million Mark

WASHINGTON. (UP) — The population of the United States, growing by unprecedented numbers, hit the 170 million mark today.

The Census Bureau, which estimated the total, said the rate of growth will continue to rise rapidly. The largest increases in recent years have been among children — in the school and preschool age groups.

The 170 million estimate was noted on a huge electric chart in the lobby of the Commerce Department building. The chart signals a birth every 8 seconds, a death every 21 seconds and the arrival of an immigrant every 2 minutes. Every 12 seconds, one American is added to the total population.

Reds Order Expulsion Of News Correspondent

MOSCOW (UP)—The Soviet government ordered the expulsion of International News Service Correspondent Charles Hugh Klensch today for "speculation" in the sale of goods and spreading anti-Soviet literature.

Foreign Ministry Press Chief Leonid F. Ilyechev summoned Klensch to his office this morning and read him an official declaration accusing him of speculation, maintaining "bad relations with Soviet citizens" and spreading anti-Soviet literature.

In ordering Klensch's ouster, Ilyechev indicated that a replacement for the American newsman could be made in the "normal manner" by application for a visa.

Klensch, who has been in Moscow for three years, has been attacked twice in the Soviet press in the past two months for "speculation." By this term it was meant he sold old clothes and a camera to state-operated second hand stores.

At the time Klensch sold the old clothes, this was permitted. But since then foreigners have been barred from selling goods.

Klensch described the "anti-Soviet literature" which he gave to Russian acquaintances as the magazine Life; Science Fiction and some British newspaper.

He declined further comment on the charges and said that INS headquarters in New York would make any necessary statement.

Klensch is 33, a native of Cincinnati, Ohio, and is married and has a 2-month-old daughter. His father is vice president of the First National Bank of Cincinnati.

Russians Have Women with Antarctic Expedition Team

MCMURDO SOUND, Antarctica Delayed — (UP) The lone American scientist attached to the Soviet Antarctic expedition said today the Russians have two refinements not found in the U. S. expedition—women and pigs.

Meteorologist Gordon D. Cartwright, 47, of New Castle, Pa., was interviewed by United Press here by radio from the Russian camp on the Indian Ocean side of the continent.

He has been with the Russians for more than a month and will remain there through the winter. In exchange, a Soviet scientist will winter over at the U.S. International Geophysical Year Antarctic headquarters at Little America.

Cartwright said the Russian expedition ship Ob has three women scientists and there are eight to 10 women crewmembers on other ships.

None are at the Soviet land bases, however, and none will remain the winter although hundreds of Soviet women applied for permission to join the expedition, he said.

Experience No Difficulties

Cartwright reported that Russian ship captains said the women are "very efficient on ships and no difficulties whatsoever have have been experienced with mixed crews."

The American scientist said he discovered the Russians were raising 40 pigs at their Mirny base and had imported eight tons of soil for an experimental garden.

He did not say how either project was faring but both are unique for this frozen continent.

Mirny is 1,400 miles from the U.S. base at McMurdo Sound. Both are equi-distant from the South Pole.

Cartwright said the Russian camp is modern, well-equipped and comfortable. His description made it sound comparable to the facilities at the U.S. base.

But the Soviets clothing, he said, "seems superior in appearance, variety and utility. All personnel are equipped with leather and fur garments."

Food Wholesome, Good

The food is wholesome and there is plenty of it, he said.

"The tea is wonderful, but caviar for breakfast is hard to face," he said.

Cartwright said the Russians spend most of their spare time playing chess — including matches with contestants in Moscow by radio.

The Russian scientists at Mirny are "of very high caliber with long experience in polar work," Cartwright said.

"All research programs — especially glaciology, oceanography, meteorology and gravity—are well conceived and well underway now."

The Russians are about to send a tractor train party — apparently similar to the U.S. Operation Deepfreeze expedition into Marie Byrd Land — into the interior of the continent. He said it would be the largest ever attempted in the Antarctic.

Cartwright said the Russians are very interested in the U.S. IGY program but have been unable to visit the U.S. site because of their own heavy work schedule.

Defense Aide Resigns Over 'Conflict' Furore

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (UP)—The White House today accepted claims of resigning Assistant Defense Secretary Robert Tripp Ross that there was no basis for his embroilment in a conflict-of-interest furore.

President Eisenhower Thursday night accepted Ross' resignation effective Feb. 20 or shortly afterward "in spite of your conviction that nothing you have done violates any legal or ethical standards," according to White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark) said his Senate investigating subcommittee will make no further inquiry into huge military clothing contracts awarded firms operated by Ross' wife and brother-in-law, unless something new turns up.

A late-day telephone conference between the President and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles apparently produced further administration satisfaction with congressional action on Mr. Eisenhower's Middle East doctrine.

Hagerty said a day of further study of a Senate committee's change in the language of a provision for use of troops in the Middle East left "no doubt" that the administration has won its objective.

President Eisenhower's slight but prolonged "scratchy throat" was tentatively blamed variously on a cold he developed during the inaugural ceremonies last month and exposure to dust during his recent drought inspection trip in the Southwest.

Maj. Gen. Howard McC. Snyder, the President's physician, maintained there was no reason for concern. The cough was noticed again Thursday as the President played golf on the Glen Arven Country Club course, but he appeared to be in excellent physical condition.

The President apparently has not set any definite date for ending his vacation stay on the plantation estate of Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey.

PITTSBURGH (UP) — Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Barta, of 904 Allegheny Ave., New Kensington, have been awarded $10,000 as a result of an automobile-truck collision in 1951.

A federal court jury specified an award of $8,000 for Mrs. Barta as a result of injuries suffered in the crash and awarded her husband $2,000. Defendant in the suit was Galier Bros., Inc., of Cleveland, a general contracting firm.

Labor Party in Britain Wins Commons Seat

LONDON (UP) — The Labor Party captured a Conservative seat in the House of Commons in a by-election Thursday, and some newspapers called today for new general elections.

It was the first loss by the Conservatives since May, 1945 and reduced the Conservative margin in the House to 59—still a comfortable working majority for Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

It was the Conservatives' first test of popularity since Macmillan succeeded Sir Anthony Eden Jan. 10 as head of the government.

Lawyer Niall Macdermot, 40, polled 18,516 votes to 17,406 for Conservative Norman Farmer, a local factory owner, in North Lewisham, a district of London. The margin was 1,110.

Miss Leslie Greene, running as an independent, collected 1,487 votes and was generally believed to have cost the Conservatives the victory.

Dulles Discusses Israel

WASHINGTON (UP)— Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban plans today to inform Secretary of State John Foster Dulles of his nation's partial acceptance of Dulles' proposal for the withdrawal of Israeli troops from Egypt.

Informed sources in Jerusalem said the Israeli cabinet at an emergency session Thursday approved Dulles plan subject to certain conditions. After the meeting, Israeli Premier David Ben Gurion sent a secret cable to Eban outlining these conditions.

An Israeli Embassy spokesman said Eban had asked for an appointment with Dulles during the day.

Dulles proposed that Israel withdraw its troops from the Sharm El Sheikh area on the Gaza Strip.

In return, he proposed that in order to protect Israel from Egyptian attack the United States would declare the gulf an international waterway and work to get U.N. forces to take over the Gaza Strip.

Sources in Jerusalem said the Israeli cabinet decided tentatively to agree to withdrawal from the mouth of the Gulf of Aqaba.

But they said the cabinet decided to reject any plan to withdraw Israeli troops from the Gaza Strip.

Egypt, claiming that the Strait of Tiran leading to the gulf is Egyptian territorial water, has blocked Israeli shipping from going through it. The Gulf is Israel's only outlet to the Red Sea.

Abdel Kader Hattem, Egyptian government information director, indicated Thursday that Egypt will insist that the problem of one million Palestine Arab refugees be settled before considering Israel's demand for freedom of shipping through the gulf.

UN IN SNARL, BUT GAZA LIFE LOOKS SATISFIED

Million-dollar orange crop.

UN's milk and food distribution center.

WHILE THE UN is in a snarl over Israel's refusal to quit the Gaza strip till there is assurance Egypt can't use the area militarily, reports from the strip itself indicate that perhaps the people there don't want the Israelis to leave at all. Some 290,000 Arabs live there, and elected Arab officials publicly proclaimed that the Gaza strip never had it so good. The town council of Rafa announced, "We welcome the declaration of Prime Minister Ben-Gurion (of Israel) that the Israel administration in the Gaza area will continue." That was Jan. 24. It is reported that the Israelis did more to help the inhabitants these past few months than Egypt did in a decade.

Egypt Hints Dulles Plan on Israel May Hurt 'Doctrine'

By UNITED PRESS

Egypt hinted today that insistence on the Dulles plan to get Israeli troops out of Egypt might jeopardize King Saudi's efforts to explain the Eisenhower Doctrine to other Arab rulers later this month.

Egyptian sources also said Egypt was ready to fight if Israeli troops continued to refuse to leave Egyptian territory. They warned that such a war might touch off a major Middle East conflagration involving the world's great powers.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was meeting Israeli Ambassador Abba Eban in Washington today to clarify certain points of his plan. The Israeli cabinet was reported to have accepted parts of it but to have raised "certain conditions."

Israeli Withdrawal Sought

The Dulles plan calls for Israeli withdrawal from the Egyptian fortress at Sharm El Sheik on the Gulf of Aqaba and also from the Gaza Strip. The United States would declare the gulf an international waterway in order to protect Israeli shipping, and would work to get United Nations forces to take over Gaza.

Washington dispatches said the State Department told Israel there was good reason to believe Egypt will go along with the Dulles proposal despite adverse statements from Cairo. But a flood of new critical comment came from the Egyptian capital today.

U.S. Sends Explanation

The United States, meanwhile, sent Saud an explanation of its plans to break the Egyptian-Israeli deadlock, hoping he would use his influence to win Arab support for the Eisenhower Doctrine. The American government also hoped he would take up the Dulles' plan.

Harsh charges came from Israel. Mordecai Kidron, deputy permanent representative of the Israeli delegation to the United Nations, told Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold Thursday night that Egyptian Fedayeen commandos made a number of raids through U.N. forces into Israel during the last 15 days. Hammarskjold promised to send U.N. teams to investigate.

In Washington, President Eisenhower and Senate Republican leader William F. Knowland indicated the final congressional version of the "Eisenhower Doctrine" will be "entirely satisfactory."

UN Opens Kashmir Debate

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP)—The Security Council opens debate today on a proposal to send its president to Kashmir to try to settle India and Pakistan's nine-year-old argument over the disputed state.

India and Pakistan were reported cool to the proposal, contained in a draft resolution sponsored by the United States, Cuba, Britain and Australia.

The draft suggested the council president for February, Gunnar V. Jarring of Sweden, explore Pakistan's idea for sending U.N. troops into Kashmir to replace Indian and Pakistani troops and prepare the state for a plebiscite.

Assembly Meeting

The General Assembly also scheduled a meeting to discuss the Algerian problem which its main political committee was unable to solve in 10 days of debate.

The committee approved two resolutions but neither of them by a two-thirds majority. A two-thirds vote in the assembly is necessary to make such resolutions effective. Delegates were at work behind the scenes trying to hammer out a compromise measure.

Informal discussion of the Middle East problem was revived by presentation of an Israeli charge Thursday that Egyptian commandos have made several raids through U.N. forces into Israel in the last 15 days.

There still was no indication how soon the assembly would resume formal consideration of the problem. Delegates were awaiting the outcome of U. S. talks with Israeli and Egyptian officials in Washington and Cairo.

GSA Would Get Increased Powers

HARRISBURG (UP)—The General State Authority would be authorized to borrow an additional $20,000,000 to renovate state hospitals with a capacity of less than 150 beds under bipartisan legislation introduced in the Assembly Tuesday.

The measure sponsored by Sens Israel Stiefel (D-Philadelphia) and Leroy E. Chapman (R-Warren) would permit the additional indebtedness above the $430,000,000 already allowed the authority.

Area Post Office Buildings Delayed

Churches Leading Campaign to Abolish the Death Penalty

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UP)—A church-led campaign to abolish the death penalty is gaining momentum in America.

Strong Protestant drives are now underway in New York, California and Massachusetts. In each of these states, Protestant church councils have adopted resolutions declaring that capital punishment is contrary to Christian principles, and have appealed to the legislatures to do away with it.

Similar bills are being pressed in at least a dozen other state legislatures this year, with varying degrees of church endorsement.

Six states already have banned capital punishment. They are Michigan, Rhode Island, Wisconsin, Maine, Minnesota and North Dakota.

The Massachusetts Council of Churches cited the experience of these states as an answer to the main argument usually advanced for continuing capital punishment: That it serves as a deterrent to murder and other grave crimes. There has been no indication, Massachusetts churchmen said, that the homicide rate has gone up in any of the states that now limit punishment of criminals to life imprisonment.

◆

The religious argument against the death penalty was slated succinctly by the legislative committee of the New York state Council of Churches:

"We hold that life is the gift of God and should not be destroyed by an individual or state."

Although there is growing opposition to capital punishment in church circles, it is still far from a unanimous sentiment.

When the British Parliament voted last year to abolish the death penalty in Great Britain, some bishops of the Church of England were among those who opposed the move. They took the position that the greatest crime—taking human life—deserved the greatest punishment.

In this country, there are many Protestants who believe that capital punishment, however repugnant to Christian mercy, may be in the same "necessary evil" category as defensive war.

The Roman Catholic Church has never taken a doctrinal stand against capital punishment and has not been involved in the church campaigns against it in this country.

Methodists in Lead Among 85th Congress

Methodists lead all religious affiliations in the 85th Congress with 18 Senators and 85 Representatives.

Roman Cathlics are second with 11 Senators and 75 Representatives.

Others in the numerical top six include: Baptists — 14 Senators and 69 Representatives; Presbyterians — 13 and 52; Episcopalians — 12 and 45; and Congregationslists — 8 and 19.

Two Senators and 18 Representatives designated their affiliation only as "Protestant."

The results of the survey of legislators, made by the Washington Methdist Information Office, show the following 18 Methodists among the 96 Senators:

Bible, Nevada; Butler, Maryland; Case, South Dakota; Dworshak, Idaho; Eastland, Mississippi; Hickenlooper, Iowa; Hill, Alabama; Holland, Florida; Jenner, Indiana; Knowland, California; Mundt, Suth Dakota; Potter, Michigan; Russell, Georgia; Schoopel, Kansas; Smathers, Florida; Smith, Maine; Sparkman, Alabama; and Williams, Delaware.

King Harry Is Sorry He Threatened Ike

WASHINGTON (UP)—The story of how King Harry I of Harrisonia made a threat on the life of President Eisenhower unfolded today.

Secret Service chief U. E. Baughman told the tale in newly-released testimony before a House appropriations subcommittee.

Baughman said a threatening letter signed by "King Harry I of Harrisonia" was one of 18,468 letters to the President examined by his staff last year.

This letter told the President that if he objected to the formation of a new state he would "have to reason with a .22 Winchester," Baughman said.

Agents investigated. They had little trouble tracking down the sender whose name actually was something like Harry Harrison (Baughman said he changed the name somewhat in his testimony).

Agents found that Harry, 12 years old, and his playmates had sent in breakfast cereal boxtops which entitled them each to a deed for a square inch of land in Alaska.

Harry and his friends decided to band together, form their own country and secede from the Union.

Baughman said the boy got off with a "severe lecture" from his mother.

"He did not realize the seriousness of his threat against the President and when the possible consequences were explained to him, he replied 'I surrender. I am now a citizen again'," Baughman said.

Painter Hurt in Uniontown Fall

UNIONTOWN, Pa. (UP)—Francis Gregorious, 31, Pittsburgh, was in serious condition in Uniontown Hospital today with injuries suffered when he fell from a 40-foot scaffolding while painting the ceiling of the auditorium of the Asbury Methodist Church.

He was under treatment for fractures of the left leg and shoulder, a possible skull fracture, and chest injuries. Police said he tripped on a loose board in the scaffolding and plunged into the pews below.

Ask Beck for Financial Records

WASHINGTON (UP) — Senate labor rackets investigators today gave Teamsters Union President Dave Beck the implied choice of voluntarily turning over his personal financial records or taking his chances on a subpena.

Beck, reached in Vienna by the United Press, said, "I will be glad to give the Senate committee all the information they want after my return to the United States. I am willing to cooperate with the committee in any respect."

The Teamsters boss arrived in in Vienna four days ago to make a personal check into the Hungarian refugee problem. He said he would return to the United States from Eruope March 26.

But Chairman John L. MClellan (D-Ark) of the labor rackets committee has asked Beck to have his attorney or aides furnish all his personal records from 1950 to date.

The special eight-man committee was reported to be issuing subpenas for many other officials of the 1.4 million-member Teamsters Union, which apparently will be the first target of the labor racketeering investigation.

Officials of the union would not comment on McClellan's request for the records, except to say that the matter would have to be taken up with the union's attorneys.

Beck's right-hand man, Executive Vice President Einar O. Mohn, has written McClellan that he would be "pleased" to testify "on those matters relevant to the conduct of your investigation."

Mohn faces a pending contempt of Congress citation for refusing to answer questions about his union activity before the Senate Permanent Investigating subcommittee, which McClellan also heads. Mohn challenged that group's right to question him when he appeared before it Jan. 18.

McClellan replied that the rackets committee would not need testimony from Mohn on "the conduct of its investigation" but on "facts and information within your knowledge."

Wants Money to Convert Estate To State Shrine

HARRISBURG (UP)—The General Assembly has been asked for a $25,000 appropriation to enable the Commonwealth to convert a historic Montgomery County estate into a state shrine.

A House bill asks the appropriation to the state Historical and Museum Commission so that it can accept the gift of the 45-acre Graeme Park in Horsham Twp. The money would pay for the restoration and maintenance of the estate.

The present owners of the property have agreed to turn it over to the state with the provision that it be maintained as a historic landmark.

The grounds and home were originally the residence of Sir William Keith who was lieutenant governor of what was then a province during the early 1700s. The home was later a prominent gathering place during the mid-18th century.

The Steelworkers Elect

THE RE-ELECTION of President David J. McDonald of the United Steelworkers is hardly unexpected, although there is some surprise expressed that his opponent, Donald C. Rarick, polled as many votes as he did.

The available returns from throughout the international union have given McDonald a big plurality which it is unlikely will be upset by the final count. In this vicinity, however, Rarick had a majority of better than two to one.

The Rarick campaign was based on a protest against an increase of $2 per month in union dues and against an increase in the salaries of high union officials. The fact that he is a McKeesport man relatively unknown elsewhere in the union undoubtedly had something to do with the pattern of voting.

The members of the union are in better position than outsiders to decide whether McDonald or Rarick is better qualified to lead the organization, and on that score we assume the election speaks for itself.

It speaks something else, however, which Mr. McDonald would do well to note, and which is of more than passing interest to all those who live and work in the atmosphere of big unions.

In the 20-year history of the steelworkers' union we are told this is the first election in which a president has had ballot opposition. For an organization which has achieved a membership of well over a million this is an amazing oneness of mind. So much so that one doubts there has been genuine democratic procedure.

* * *

THE ELECTION may indicate that the steelworkers are ready for a little more democracy, or it may just indicate that Mr. McDonald is a little less strong than some other strong men before him.

How much democracy exists in a union is, of course, a family matter. Just as it's a family matter how much the officers are paid and the standard of living in which they are kept.

It is important for Mr. McDonald and his colleagues to realize, however, that if democracy is actually raising its head, then we are likely to see a new face on big unionism. Because democracy requires responsibility of its leaders. Not only narrow allegiance to a group but a regard for the general welfare and an understanding of why the group must never be out of step with that general welfare.

The strong man who will lead a union to barricade a coastline, shut down a basic industry, cut off communication, or paralyze a metropolis is no longer administering union affairs: he's ravishing the United States of America. That's not good for his union. If his members don't alter the course, the public eventually will.

We have no way of knowing whether or in what respect the election will bring changes in the conduct of affairs of the United Steelworkers or other big unions. Mr. McDonald, however, has the information for what it is worth that not all steelworkers are satisfied with things as they have been. That's handwriting of a sort.

New Role for Britain

GREAT BRITAIN'S decision not only to join a European free trade area but to take a leading role in creating it is for England a courageous reversal of traditional policy and for the world a momentous step toward a reshuffling of power.

The proposed free trade area to include 17 nations and 250 million human beings, which England has virtually assured by pledging her own adherence, will be a limited economic association. Free trade within it will apply only to industrial goods and each nation will retain its own tariff structure with relation to outside nations, such as the United States. It is estimated that 10 years will be required to remove tariffs and quotas by gradual annual reductions.

Modest as that proposal is, its implications are vast. Establishment of a common European industrial market is the first logical extension of the highly successful European Coal and Steel Community which significantly not only solved economic rivalries between France and Germany but permitted political disposition of the long-standing Saar problem.

The next step will be the formation of a customs union which is a free trade area with common customs barriers against the outside world. Such a union is already under negotiation by France, West Germany, Italy Belgium, Luxembourg and the Netherlands. Great Britain has given its blessing but at the moment feels it must remain aloof in order to keep its trade ties with the Commonwealth.

England, after centuries as the island headquarters of empire, turns now tentatively to cast its lot with Europe. The reasons are obvious. The rise of the Soviet Union has made it impossible for England to pursue her traditional policy of balancing Continental coalitions against each other.

The rise of the United States as a world power and the dropping off of the British colonies transfers to Washington much of Britain's former world position. England needs a new base of power. Western Europe needs unity that it may enjoy strength and independence.

Merry-Go-Round–

Watchdog for Stock Market Is Important

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — With ex-President Hoover warning that our present economy has some of the earmarks of the depression that hit his administratin, and with Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey talking about a possible depression that would "make your hair curl," this is the time to watch the organization set up to watch the stock market — the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Mr. Pearson

Things have changed around the SEC in the past four years. All you have to do is look at its personnel to understand how much it has changed.

When the SEC was first established under Roosevelt to police the stock market, FDR appointed to it some of the best brains in the nation. Its commissioners included Justice William O. Douglas, now on the Supreme Court; Ferdinand Pecora, later on the New York Supreme Court; Joseph K. Kennedy, later Ambassador to England; the late Judge Jerome Frank of the U. S. Court of Appeals; James Landis, later chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board; Sumner Pike, later on the Atomic Energy Commission; Leon Henderson, later OPA administrator; Harry McDonald; Ganson Purcell; and others.

In those days, SEC commissioners took the initiative in watching Wall street. They didn't wait for financial murders to be committed first. They took action to prevent the murders.

Under Eisenhower, however, the SEC started playing brazen, amazing politics when it ignored a lengthy telegram from J. D. Stietenroth, the Secretary of Mississippi Power and Light, a Dixon-Yates subsidiary, warning that the company had filed false figures with the SEC.

The name of the law establishing the SEC is the "Truth-in-Securities" Act, meaning that anyone who sells stock and bonds must file a statement with the SEC and tell the truth.

"I desire to withdraw each and every financial figure and any and all data which are included in the registration statements," Stietenroth telegraphed.

He referred to the proposed stock flotation of Middle South Utilities and Mississippi Power and Light, part of the Dixon-Yates combine.

Yet, despite this warning from a high official of the combine, the SEC ok'd the stock flotation next day. Previous SEC commissioners would have held extensive hearings. But the new SEC, un-worried about protecting the investing public, didn't wait a minute.

Meanwhile, likable, inexperienced, young J. Sinclair Armstrong, chairman of the SEC, is sitting on several kegs of financial dynamite, but desn't seem to know it.

Surprise Dinner Partners

At a dinner given in honor of the Chief Justice and Mrs. Warren the other night, a lady who doesn't always approve of everything in this column but tolerates living with its author, found herself seated beside the Attorney General, Herbert Brownell. Mrs. P is always suffereing from things she finds written in her husband's newspaper column over which she has no control. But she is usually equal to the occasion. In this case she said:

"Washington is never dull, Mr. Brownell. When you go out to dinner in New York you can always be sure exactly what is going to happen. You sit down beside Mrs. Rumplemeyer or Mrs. L'Escarot and they'll tell you all about the weather and their clubs and their children.

"But in Washington you never know whom you'll sit beside. Imagine finding yourself sitting by me."

"I admit," replied the Attorney General, "I might have found myself disconcerted sitting beside your husband."

Diversionary Oil Probe

There's some interesting backstage wire-pulling behind the fact that two separate Senate committees are investigating oil. It points toward the door of potent, personable, oil-conscious Lyndon Johnson, senator from oil-rich Texas.

Sen. Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming began investigating oil last summer. An experienced, relentless trust-buster, O'Mahoney can be depended on to do a good job. Backstopping him and working with him as new chairman of the anti-monopoly subcommittee is Estes Kefauver, another uncompromising trust-buster. Their committee asked for $300,000 to carry on a comprehensive probe of all monopoly — including oil — only to have the rules committee scale this down to $225,000.

When the matter came up on the Senate floor, the anti-monopoly subcommittee asked for an additional $25,000. Instead of getting it, $50,000 — twice that much — was dropped out of clear Senate skies into the lap of the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce committee for a rival probe of oil.

How Lyndon Johnson Does It

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Under the persuasive and flexible leadership of Lyndon Johnson the Democratic party is deploying its talent in the Senate far more effectively than are the Republicans.

Mr. Drummond

The difference is that Sen. Johnson, because of the initiative he took four years ago, no longer has to be governed exclusively by seniority in assigning committee positions.

The Republicans, perhaps deliberately because it helps keep the Old Guard on top, are completely prisoners of the seniority system. Length of service in the Senate has everything to do with committee assignments. Ability, interest, party balance have no voice.

Here is how Sen. Johnson, who persuaded the Democratic steering committee to go along with him when he became party leader in 1953, works his system so that he gets nearly all his Democratic senators where they can do the most good as soon as possible:

Rule No. 1 is that every Democratic senator, regardless of seniority, shall get one good committee assignment before any Democratic senator gets two good committees, however much his seniority.

Rule No. 2 is that three factors shall be weighed about equally in determining which Democratic senators shall go to which committees: seniority, georgraphical balance, and viewpoint, that is, party balance. Sen. Jonnson does not wish to over-weight any committee with Democratic conservatives or Democratic liberals or Democratic middle-roaders. His aim is to hold his party together.

Uses Whole Squad

What does this mean in actual operation? It means that quarterback Johnson makes use of his whole squad in the positions they can play best. It means that he doesn't send one man out on the field to play two positions.

Here is what it enables him to do:

When Stuart Symington came to the Senate after serving as the Secretary of the Air Force, he didn't have to serve a ten year apprenticeship on the Senate Committee for the District of Columbia. He went to the Armed Services Committee for which his whole experience fitted him and is today making a powerful contribution to Democratic leadership in the air power investigation which he has chairmaned over the past year.

Again, Tennessee's able Democratic Senator, Albert Gore, could go to the highly important Finance Committee after only four years seniority.

This intelligent deployment of Democratic Senatorial talent comes out in the headlines only when there is some striking application of it as in the appointment of Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts over Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee to the Foreign Relations Committee.

To many outsiders this Kennedy appointment looked like a pointed affront to Sen. Kefauver. It wasn't. It was the unanimous decision of the Democratic steering committee and was a faithful application of the two general rules cited above. By previous assignment, Sen. Kefauver is now a high ranking member of two other important committees — Judiciary and Armed Services — and could become chairman of either. There are already three Southern Democrats on Foreign Affairs and no Easterners. Sen. Kennedy adds geographical and party balance to the Democratic membership of the committee.

Three Experienced Men

Here's how the seniority-first-last-and-always system deploys the Republican Senatorial talent. Last fall there were three experienced specialists in foreign affairs elected Republican Senators. They were John Sherman Cooper, twice previously in the Senate and former Ambassador to India; Thurston B. Morton, former member of Congress and former Assistant Secretary of State; and Jacob K. Javits, a long-time member of the House, where he specialized in foreign affairs before he was elected Attorney General of New York in 1954.

Well, this talent was deployed as follows: Cooper went to the to the Post Office Committee and Javits went to the District Committee.

Admittedly the Republicans did not have amny committee prizes to hand out. The choice Democratic appointment went to Sen. Kennedy because it would best serve the party. The biggest Republican prize, a place on the finance committee, went to Sen. William E. Jenner of Indiana — while Eisenhower's "new Republicans" wait in line.

Finding Happy Medium In Pursuit of Hobbies

By MARGARET LATROBE

Someone defined a hobby as hard work you wouldn't do for a living. In search of relaxation many of us have gone in for high fidelity sets. We liked music, and also understood that having a hobby is excellent for avoiding frowns from psychiatrist friends. Good music, we figured, is above suspicion.

Mrs. Latrobe

Some of us gave philately a trial, but couldn't stand licking the stamps. Others buzzed about in the basement over power saws, or waded in the sea for odd fishes or weeds or shells. And some got busy with water colors. But finding ourselves a fright with paint brush, allergic to snails or all thumbs at the saw — we turned gladly to the pleasant hobby of high fidelity music.

When Ted Lewis murmured, "Is Everybody happy?" we could only sigh and admit we were very, very happy. (Turn up the volume, pal. The timpani is weak.)

A national magazine shatters our equilibrium with a report that a new neurosis is afoot — audiophilia. Sufferers from this dread condition are hi-fi addicts who can't get the darned sound loud enough. "The sound is turned up and up until it reaches the physical level of pain." Canadian psychiatrist Henry Angus Bowes, reporting his "audiophile" discovery at a convention of neurosis nippers, stated that hi-fi devotees are frequently of "compulsive personality and tend to go through rituals in the playing of recordings." He admits membership in this group of music-lovers.

I feel this way about the tuneful tirade. If music is worth listening to, then turn up the dials, Mac, and let's see what manner of oboist we got. Background music is right pretty, but frequently causes crises in the foreground. No composer ever wrote a composition for not listening to, while your ears strain to hear what someone is saying. Either let's talk or let's listen — but not both together.

Perhaps each are of life, work or leisure, reveals its contingent of excesses. What began as a gentle pastime becomes a compulsion. Look at the ladies who trot out their knitting needles — at the opera, picnic, movies, meetings or in the dentist's chair. They took up knitting, then knitting took them. That new car — must its owner spend every free moment polishing, patting and shining the chrome? Saving string may be a convenient hobby, if one is forever wrapping packages — but must string-saving become a life's project? Having an immaculate house is great — but are corners to be dusted come hail and high water?

If we enjoy hobbies a little bit, then we are dabblers. If too much, we are pathologically addicted. Where's the happy medium, Doc? And while thinking it over, how about turning up the music? We can't hear the trombonist breathing.

Ike's 'Selling' Powers With Saud Face Test

By CHARLES M. MCCANN

President Eisenhower's success in trying to "sell" his Middle Eastern policy to King Saud of Saudi Arabia is about to undergo a test.

Saud is expected to confer in Cairo on Feb. 23 with President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt, King Hussein of Jordan and President Shukri el-Kuwatly of Syria.

President Eisenhower's new "doctrine" aimed at combatting Communist penetration of the Arab countries is certain to be the No. 1 topic for discussion.

Before he left Washington last Saturday, Saud expressed approval of the doctrine. He said he would explain its aims to his fellow Arab leaders.

Egypt Is Suspicious

Egypt and Syria are suspicious of the doctrine, which calls for the use of American armed forces if necessary to fight armed Communist aggression and also provides for a $400 million aid program to lessen the danger of Communist penetration and subversion.

Both Egypt and Syria also have adopted policies which leave them wide open to Russian penetration.

Jordan has been more or less non-committal on the doctrine. But King Hussein personally is reported to approve it.

Of the other Arab countries, Crown Prince Abdul Illah of Iraq and Foreign Minister Charles Malik of Lebanon expressed approval of the Eisenhower Doctrine.

The Cairo conference has been limited to four Arab countries partly because Saudi Arabia, Egypt and Syria have agreed to make up to Jordan the $33 million-a-year subsidy which it has been getting from Britain under a treaty which has just been annulled at Jordan's demand.

Saud May Succeed

But Saud may be able to help materially by expressing approval of the doctrine to his fellow conferees, and urging them to accept it. If they did, the other Arab nations almost certainly would.

The importance of the aid angle of the Eisenhower plan has not been emphasized as has the military angle.

But Egypt and Syria, especially, could use any part of $200 million. There is considerable doubt whether Egypt, Saudi Arabia and Syria can pay Jordan its promised $33 million.

There seems good reason for hope that Saud, especially by emphasizing the American aid program, can help to make the Eisenhower Doctrine look good

Farm Subsidies Under Soil Bank Facing Fight

WASHINGTON (UP)— House Democrats accepted today a Republican challenge to a floor fight to determine whether subsidies for farmers under the soil bank program will be incresed, curtailed or restored to last year's level.

Under the $1.2 billion soil bank farmers receive government checks for taking surplus-producing acres of certain crops out of production.

The Democratic decision broke a deadlock which had threatened to bottle up an administration request in the House Agriculture Committee. The administration wants legislation to restore last year's soil bank benefits to commercial corn growers in the Republican Midwest.

The Democrats insist upon a bill that also would include granting new supplemental soil bank benefits to growers of wheat, cotton and other basic crops.

The result could be a bitter floor fight that might result in killing both the corn benefits sought by Republicasn and the supplemental benefits championed by Democrats.

Grant Extension For Filing Returns

HARRISBURG (UP) — State Revenue Secretary Gerald A. Gleeson has granted a 60 day extension to all public utilities and printing firmsfor fiing 1956 annual sales and use tax return forms.

Gleeson said the extension until April 30 was granted so the firms would have time to prepare their forms in accordance with regulations now being prepared by the Sales and Use Tax Bureau. The returns cover the period March 7 through Dec. 31, 1956.

All other businesses are required to return their forms by Feb. 28, Gleeson said.

Claims Modern GOP in State

GREENVILLE, Pa. (UP)— House Majority Leader Albert W. Johnson (R-McKean) told the Mercer County Republicans here Thursday night that "modern Republicanism" has come to Pennsylvania.

Johnson defined the term as being a "party of integrity, faith, responsibility and confidence." He said the GOP leadership in the General Assembly "stands on these fundamentals" in the performance of their duties.

He said Republicans must reflect liberal views when dealing with people, but must be "conservative in the matter of economy" to live up to Republicanism as outlined by president Eisenhower.

New Policy Offers Family Protection

Family protection coverage, which will pay motorists the damages they are entitled to recover if they or members of their families are injured by uninsured automobiles, is now effective in Pennsylvania, William Leslie, general manager of the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters, announced today.

Under the new coverage the company agrees to pay all sums which the insured shall be legally entitled to recover as damages from the owner or operator of an uninsured automobile because of bodily injury caused by accident.

Coverage will apply even when the injury occurs while the insured is not occupying an automobile as, for example, if struck by an uninsured car while walking or bicycling.

A "hit-and-run" car will be regarded as an uninsured car, and coverage will apply where neither the owner nor the operator of the "hit-and-run" car can be ascertained.

Included as insured are the named insured as stated in the policy and, while residents of the same household, the husband or wife of the named insured and their relatives. Guests are also included under the coverage while occupying an automobile operated by the named insured or spouse.

The new coverage will be available to owners of private passenger cars that are eligible for insurance under the "family automobile policy," which is a contract designed exclusively for insuring private passenger cars owned by individuals or by husband and wife. The new family protection coverage will be afforded at low cost by endorsement of the automobile liability insurance policy.

It will be issued for limits of liability corresponding to those specified in the financial responsibility law of the individual state. Higher limits will not be available.

A similar form of family protection coverage for families not owning automobiles will be made available at the earliest possible date by means of a separate policy wherever permissible under state insurance laws, according to Leslie.

African music, especially that of stringed instruments, is displeasing to the ears of whites, who can't recall or repeat even the simplest African musical refrains.

WHICH GIRL PASSED THE N. P.* TEST?
*NINETY PERCENT
The poised young woman at the right of course You can tell at a glance . . and that's why the Ninety-Percent Test is so important. Adults judge even children (and children judge each other) by what they see. It's true that clothes may create slightly less than 90% of the impression Juniors make, but the test is just as important.
Another point to remember Because children's clothes become so grimy so quickly, it's especially important to have them drycleaned regularly and often (This kind of care carries a built in bonus. In addition to looking fresher, drycleaned clothes last longer.)

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Most children have headaches from time to time. That's not too unusual

But if your youngster has them regularly, or even frequently, better have him see your physician It may be migraine.

Surprisingly enough, children can have migraines just as readily as adults. In fact, cases of migraine have been reported in children only 1½ years old

A Mayo Clinic study by Drs Edmund C Burke and Gustavus A Peters has developed an "average" case of child migraine Let's see how your youngster compares to this average case.

Generally, attacks occur in a 7-year-old boy, although ages, of course, vary and girls can be stricken almost as readily as boys. This young migraine victim is a good student, but he is nervous and somewhat emotional

His headaches usually begin in the afternoon, most frequently during school months

When he comes home he is rather pale and complains of a frontal headache Surveys show that many times such headaches are precipitated by emotional or physical exertion, movies, television or bright sunshine.

Anyway, his mother gives him an aspirin and puts him to bed Since the light seems to bother him, she darkens the room

Before long the youngster becomes nauseated and vomits several times However, all cases of migraine don't bring on vomiting

Then some youngsters complain of dizziness, fever, blurred vision and frequent urination. But this as I said, is the average case

Eventually, the child falls asleeps When he awakens in the morning the migraine is gone This same pattern in the average patient is repeated every two or three weeks.

During summer vacation, however, he may be completely free from such distress.

The mother of this average migraine case alsoo experiences migraine headaches, usually about once every month, except during pregnancy.

So check your youngster's headache reports against this average case of migraine. If you see any similarity at all, consult your doctor.

Rock Hudson Takes Another Step in Movies

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Rock Hudson, a good-looking ex-truck driver who soared to the top with "Giant," has taken another step. Playing a grizzled drunk to get away from that "handsome boy" category

Lunchers at Universal-International's commissary today hardly recognized Rock He wore a two-day beard and a cheap suit and his hair hung to his eyes

"I thought I'd try something different than straight leading man stuff, which isn't too much fun," he said with the grin that helped make him one of Hollywood's few young stars

"In this picture I try to build a little character"

Talking to Rock you realize how a non-actor type man must suffer when he has to make faces and display intimate feelings in front of a camera while two dozen bored electricians, prop men and actors look on.

"Playing a character part gives me something to hide behind," Hudson explained thoughtfully.

Movie Club Sets Dates for Tourney

The Monessen Movie Club has requested use of the MHS gym next December 27 and 28 for a holiday basketball tournament. Under consideration as entries are McKeesport, Uniontown, Ford City and Sharon among others . . . Bob Slebodnik, who stretches a mere six feet, eight and one half inches, has established a new basketball scoring record at Har-Brack. Big Bob tossed in 18 points against Arnold the other night to increase his three-year varsity total to 1011 . . . Sam Vidnovic, WMCK sportscaster who covers the schoolboy beat, will be honored at a testimonial banquet in McKeesport on February 25. Sam aired 51 basketball games last season and 29 grid tussles.

* * *

Coach Tony Caterino's Monessen Junior Varsity basketballers, who lost three of their first five games this season, have certainly come a long way. Their record at the moment is a sporty, 13-4 . . . By the way, the Charleroi Jayvees have a 14-2 slate with one of the losses pinned on by Monessen . . . In Uniontown, the Morning Herald has asked readers to vote for a 1956-57 All-Fayette County basketball team . . . Latrobe High basketballers haven't lost a league game at home this season. Unhappily they've won just one on the road, so their league record at the moment is 5-6.

* * *

Donora Gridders to Play Saturdays

Apparently Donora High will play its home football games this season on Saturday nights. At least Dragon biggies have asked Monessen's permission to move their tussle back a night . . . Beginning in 1958, the WPIAL will not permit the start of the basketball season before Dec. 1. All of which may force Monessen to drop McKeesport. For years the two schools have been meeting in the season opener late in November. Now they can't seem to find an open date deeper in the schedule to keep the series alive . . . Henry (Ace) Groom, former Brownsville and Massilon, O., footballer, has signed to play with Calgary in Canada's Western Football League next season. Last year, Ace played with Saskatchewan in the same circuit.

* * *

Just for the record: The Monessen Tracys won the Ozarks Basketball Tournament junior division title last season, not Charleroi as was incorrectly reported last week. The Tracys were made up mostly of Monessen High standouts . . . Once the Big Six principals formally draft a constitution, don't be surprised if both Clairton and Elizabeth seek admission. Elizabeth, in particular, appears interested in the Conference . . . McKeesport High basketballers have won 19 straight games this season and they are lop-sided favorites in their remaining three tests during the regular campaign.

* * *

Ozarks May Sponsor Baseball Team

The Monessen Ozarks, who dropped out of the Mon Valley Baseball League midway through last season, may ask for their franchise back this year. Tony Mascetta, president of the Ozarks, says much depends on the financial success of the upcoming basketball tournament. "If we do well on the tourney, we'll probably get back into the Mon Valley League," reports Mascetta. "Last year, our baseball and basketball teams lost $700. With no outside backing, we have to rely on our club promotions — mainly the tournament — to support all of our activities." . . . By the way, the Ozarks have rented a building at 368 Donner avenue and will soon furnish it as the club headquarters.

Gonzales Top Netter But Others Get Money

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Richard (Pancho) Gonzales, for two straight years the world's best tennis player, had to rate himself today as the paddle patsy of all time.

It's all a matter of money. And, while Pancho has been the boss of the professional courts, two erstwhile amateurs named Tony Trabert and Ken Rosewall have picked up most of the financial marbles.

As example, Gonzales, received his big payoff of $65,000 when he turned pro in 1949 after winning two U.S. Amateur titles. Since then he has had the peanut end of the deal.

Jack Kramer was the pro boss at that time but he had a little something extra going for him. He was the promoter as well as the pro champ, and he proved that latter part, too, by dusting off Pancho, 96 matches to 27.

Worked On Game

The next year, Gonzales was only an "also" member of the troupe and his payoff was a mere $15,000. He was so disgusted that he stepped out of the tour for three years. During this time he worked on his game while working in a gas station, selling tennis supplies and finally going to Europe on tour.

His game strengthened, he returned in 1954 and won a round robin playoff against Pancho Segura and Frank Sedgman. All he earned was $15,000.

In the 1955-56 era, Trabert cleaned up all the amateur titles and turned pro—for a fat $80,000. Gonzales ruined him, defeating Tony 74 matches to 27 on their tour. But his end was a mere $17,000.

New Tour Underway

Now a new tour is underway with Rosewall, the U.S. champion from Australia as the new box office lure. He did all right, too, with a $65,000 guarantee and 25 per cent of the gross above $325,000.

They got under way in Australia and Gonzales indicated that he was going to remain the champion by winning seven of the first 11 matches. His end will be $25,000 or 25 per cent of the gate.

"I'm going to win this series, too," Gonzales asserted. "But, honestly, it looks tougher than against Trabert."

Pancho is admittedly "worried" but adds "I always worry about my opponents."

But what worries him most is how he can ever get around to earning the top slice which goes to the erstwhile amateurs he knocks off so easily.

MHS Dribblers Play Host to Donora

Hope to Repeat Earlier Win Over Visiting Dragons

Monessen High's spunky basketballers will play host to Donora tonight, still hoping to come out on top in the current Section 5 race.

The Hounds must win to keep alive their fading hopes. A loss will erase them from the chase for good.

Donora figures to be troublesme, even though the Dragons were easy 19 point victims of the Hounds earlier in the year.

In that game, the Dragons obviously had a bad night. High scoring Dave Russell, in particular, just couldn't find the range.

On the other hand, Monessen played one of its finest games to handle Donora with ease.

As a matter of fact, that original conquest was so effortless that the Hounds may find it hard working up a head of steam tonight. An attitude like that could prove disastrous.

Jump Shot Star

Donora's offensive star is the 6-0 Russell, a jump shot specialist with lots of desire.

The tall boy in the Dragon lineup is Don Sento, a 6-3 senior whose cage career has been spoiled somewhat by a series of injuries.

Other starters are 6-1 Hal Rice, 6-1 Dick Mongelluzzo and 5-10 Angelo Dabiero. They are not exactly in the midget class.

Top reserves are Jim Crawford, 5-8; Bill Sento, 5-11; and Ted Parquette, 6-4.

That Donora crew has been both good and bad this season, while posting a 7-11 record. At times the Dragons have loked mighty impressive; at other times they haven't.

MHS Starters

Monessen will start with Frank Crisi, 6-0; Dick DiBiaso, 6-1; Carl Crawley, 6-0; Joe Kurey, 6-0; and Maurice Mathieu, 5-9.

The injured John Bogovich, 5-10, may also be ready for full-time duty.

After tonight's game, the Hounds will have only assignments against Charleroi and Monongahela remaining on their 1956-57 schedule.

They may still tie for the Section 5 title if they beat the Cougars next week and if Donora upsets the high-riding Charleroians. To stay alive Monessen must win all of its remaining games, of course.

Bellmar Plays Monongahela

Canes Out To Repeat Earlier Win

Bellmar's Hurricane basketballers will play host to Monongahela tonight in Section 5 action.

The Canes handled Monongahela earlier in the year, so they are solid choices to win again now that they have a home floor advantage.

The Bellmar boys, currently owning a 3-7 record in league play, hope to wind up the campaign with a couple of more wins.

One other Section 5 game is on tap tonight. Donora will appear at Monessen.

In exhibition play, Rostraver will travel to Brownsville for a 1 p. m. assignment this afternoon.

Section 10 Card

Three games are slated in Section 10. Scottdale will go to Ramsay, Derry Twp. to Ligonier and Dunbar to Hurst.

Derry currently leads the race, a half-game in front of the second place Scotties. Both teams are favored to win tonight.

The tight Section 17 chase will feature three interesting contests.

East Huntingdon will go to West Newton, Irwin to South Huntingdon.

Irwin Sets Pace

Irwin leads the race by a game and figures to handle South without too much trouble.

Both West Newton and Perryopolis are only a game off the pace. They, too, should win without trouble.

Here's the way the Daily Independent sports department picks tonight's games:

Donora at MONESSEN (7)
Monongahela at BELLMAR (5)
SCOTTDALE at Ramsay (4)
DERRY TWP. at Ligonier (8)
Dunbar at HURST (14)
E. Huntingdon at W. NEWTON (10)
IRWIN at South Huntingdon (9)
Season Record: 116 right, 34 wrong.

Ken Konz Top Punt Return Champ in NFL

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 15 (UP) —Ken Konz, a fleet defensive back for the Cleveland Browns, today was officially tabbed as the National Football League's 1956 punt return champion.

Konz, who finished fourth in that department in 1955, carried 13 punts a total of 187 yards for a 14 4-yard average. His longest return was 65 yards for a touchdown. S rank Bernardi of the Chicago Cardinals was second to Konz in the 1956 punt return standings with a 12.1-yard average. Ken Keller, Philadelphia Eagles rookie, was third with a 9.7 average.

Fourth place went to Carl Taseff of Baltimore with an 8 6-yard average and fifth to Willard Sherman of Los Angeles with 8 3 yards.

Al Carmichael of Green Bay, Howard Cassady of Detroit, Joe Arenas of San Francisco, Don Paul of Cleveland and Henry Ford of Pittsburgh rounded out the first 10 in that order.

Webb After His 18th Straight Win

NEW YORK (UP)—Spider Webb of Chicago, hottest contender in the middleweight division, seeks his 18th straight victory tonight in a 10-rounder with Neal Rivers of Las Vegas, Nev., at Madison Square Garden.

It will be televised and broadcast nationally by NBC at 10 p.m. EST.

Webb, ranked fourth among 160-pound contenders, and Rivers, eighth, are making their Garden debuts in a bout designed to boost the winner toward an ultimate title shot. Each believes he can beat champion Gene Fullmer.

The 25-year-old Spider, an exceptionally balanced boxer-puncher, is favored at 13-5 because of his skill, punch and ruggedness.

Li'l Leaguer

IT'S TOO MISERABLE, TERRIBLE, FREEZING, WET AND SNOWY TO STAY IN. I THINK I'LL GO OUT AND PLAY FOOTBALL!

Charleroi Hurdles California, 56-45

Charleroi High's basketballers clinched at least a tie in the Section 5 race this season by tripping California, 56-45, last night.

The game, originally scheduled for tonight, was moved up earlier in the week at the request of California school officials. The switch in dates was one of the best kept sports secrets of the year.

The host Trojans provided the Cougars with some anxious moments. It wasn't until the final 20 seconds that the Cougars really sewed things up with six straight points.

Ollie Payne, Bob Boda and George Schoener were the big three in the Charleroi attack, with 17, 11 and 10 points respectively.

Quasanella accounted for 13 California points.

Close Score

Charleroi led most of the game, even though the score was never lopsided. At intermission the Cougars were in front 23-21. And with just a minute to go, the score was 50-45.

For Charleroi, the victory was the tenth straight in league play. The Cougars overall record stands at 20 wins and one setback.

The Cougars still have league games remaining with Monessen and Donora. A win in either will clinch undisputed possession of the title.

Lineups follow:

Charleroi 56

Schoener, 3-4-10; Pottios, 1-3-5; Payne, 5-7-17; Witmyer, 4-1-9; Boda, 4-3-11; Chacko, 1-2-4. Totals, 18-20-56.

Grady Wallace May Move into NCAA Top Spot

NEW YORK (UP)—Grady Wallace, hottest of the three archrivals in that blazing battle for the national basketball scoring championships, gets his chance to regain the No. 1 spot tonight.

The six-foot, five-inch South Carolina star currently stands third in official figures confirmed by the NCAA today, but 36 points against Virginia tonight would move him right to the top ahead of Chet Forte of Columbia and Wilt Chamberlain of Kansas.

Forte, the five-foot, nine-inch "Jet," has an average of 30 18 points per game to hold the edge on his two Goliath rivals. Chamberlain, who had been in front all season until Feb. 6, now stands second at 29 94 and then comes Wallace at 29 90.

After Wallace gets his shot tonight, the others play Saturday—Forte against Dartmouth and Chamberlain against Missouri.

There's no secret to Forte's success — the hard-driving little Lion draws many fouls and is the nation's best free throw shooter. He's canned .898 per cent of his charity attempts, compared to .893 for Jackie Murdock of Wake Forest and .892 for Dave Ricketts of Duquesne, who recently set a major-college record of 42 straight.

Ray Downs of Texas has a hairline lead in basket shooting with a .5714 shooting average to .5709 for Al Inniss of St. Francis of Brooklyn.

Chamberlain remains the rebound leader with .261 percentage to .240 for Alex (Boo) Ellis of Niagara.

Forte's 45 points Wednesday against Pennsylvania enabled Columbia to regain the national team scoring lead with an average of 87.5 points per game to 87.2 for West Virginia.

The Oklahoma Aggies, perennial defense champions, are on top again in that department with an average of 53.2 points allowed per game to 53.5 for California.

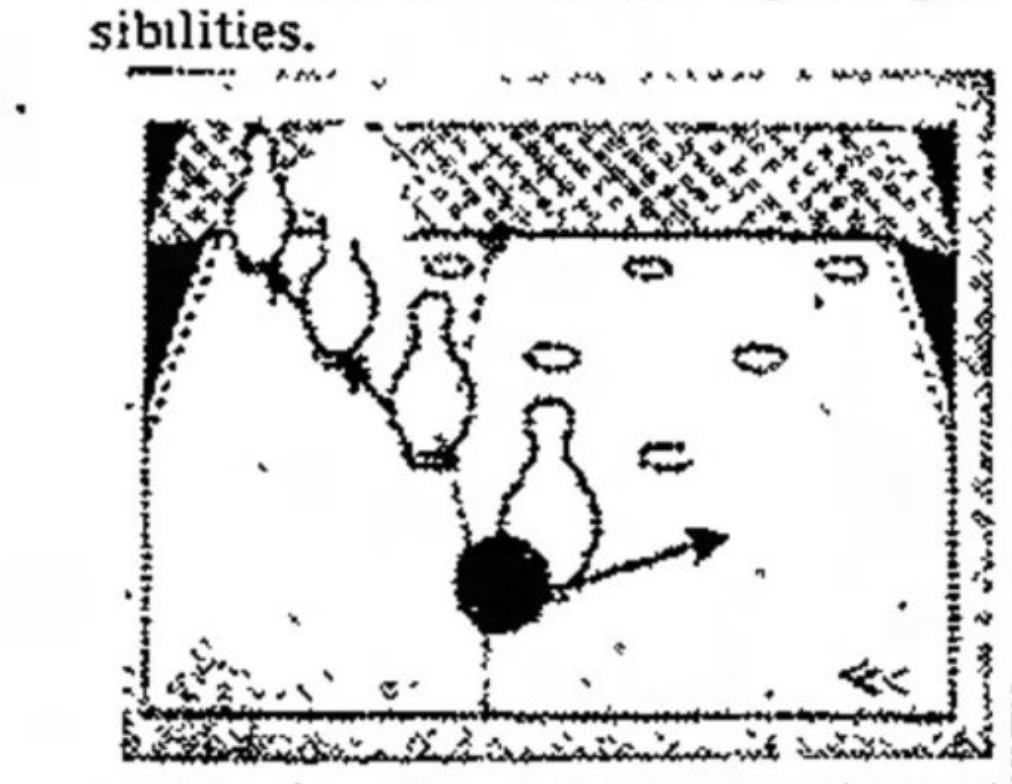
BOWLING

By JOE JANNOTTA

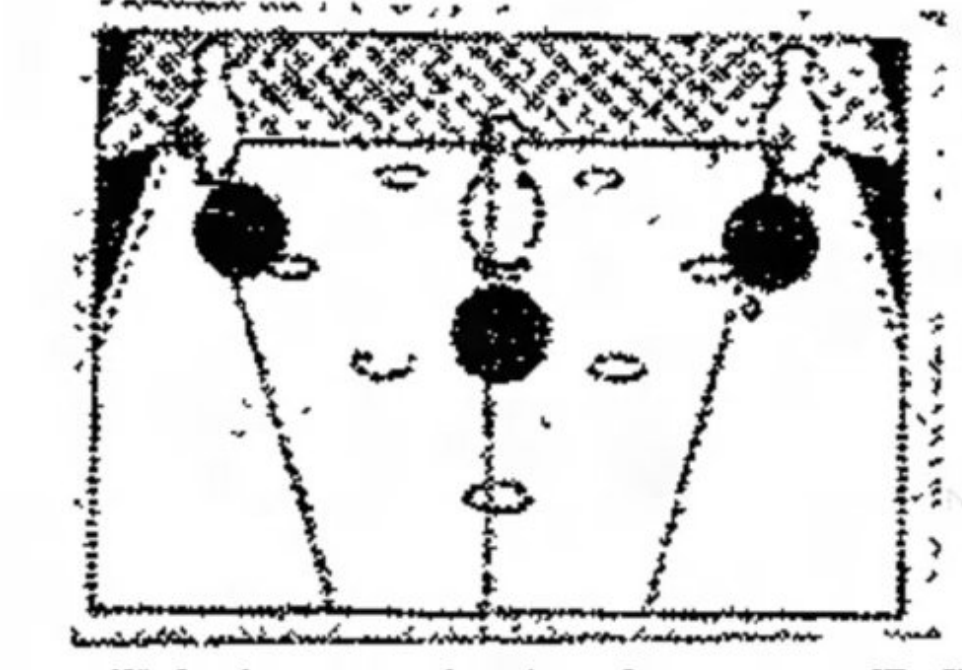
In our recent columns, we've been going over the proper method for recording various spares.

If you have any questions on any of htese situations, please feel free to write to me in care of the Daily Independent.

Here are two more spare possibilities.



This is the 1-2-4-7 or 1-3-6-10 spare. Deliver the ball in a straight line into the 1-2 pocket or the 1-3 pocket. It is not advisable to attempt this spare by hitting the front pin on the outside.



This is any single pin spare. Roll lar delivery, aiming to hit pin full. at all but the 7 or 10 pin with regu-. For 7 use cross alley ball from the right. For 10, use cross alley ball from about the center of alley.

Viaduct, Big Five Advance in Playoffs

Begin Best-of-Three Series Next Monday To Decide Challenger

Just as everyone predicted, Viaduct and Big Five will begin a best-of-three series next Monday to decide the challenger for the 1957 City Basketball League title.

Those two teams emerged easily from quarter-final tests last night at the Junior High gym.

Big Five whacked the tired Ozarks, 48-26, while Viaduct rolled over East End, 57-41.

Neither result was unexpected. Viaduct finished second in the final standings while Big Five placed third.

In their series next week, Viaduct has been installed as a slight favorite. The series winner will meet the unbeaten Cro-Ams for the league crown.

Tie at Intermission

Big Five had trouble last night only during the first half. They trailed 7-4 at the end of the first period and were no better than even at 16-16 by half-time.

However the Ozarks, obviously worn out after several tough tournament tests, started to wilt in the third period and the game eventually turned into a romp.

John Bronson led the victors with 15 points. Leroy Stover chipped in with nine.

Sanc Top Scorer

For the Ozarks Ed Sanc was high with six.

Viaduct led all the way against East End, piling up advantages in each of the first three periods.

Dick DiCensio tallied 16 points. Mike Young chipped in with 12 and Bill Mitnick contributed 10.

Clyde Green led the losers with 16. Bob Manderino came through with 11.

Fort Wayne to Move Basketball Team to Detroit

DETROIT, (UP)—Fred Zollner, a Hoosier with faith in Detroit's reputation of being the "best sport town in the country," Thursday affirmed that his Ft. Wayne Pistons of the National Basketball Association will switch to Detroit this fall.

The move requires only the formal approval by the NBA's board of governors. Zollner said he already had contacted the board members and they unanimusly approved. The vote will be taken during the April meeting.

"We have been averaging 3,500 to 3,800 fans per game in a 10,000 seat arena," Zollner said. "That's great for a city with little more than 100,000 persons."

But Zollner plainly wants more to attend the NBA's Western Division leader's games. The Pistons, operating under a six-year contract with Olympia Stadium President Bruce Norris, will play a "minimum" of 22 dates in Detroit. Five to seven of them will be doubleheaders.

Seven games will be played at Ft. Wayne next season, one with each NBA club.

"Detroit is the only town we considered," the well-tanned industrialist said.

"We had an offer from Louisville but we didn't look into it," he said.

Authorities maintain the original home of Angora cats was Persia or Arabia.

Dayton Practically Assures Bid To NIT with Current Win Streak

By UNITED PRESS

Dayton, runner-up in the National Invitation Tournament four of the last six years, boosted its bid for a return trip to that court carnival today along with two other hopefuls — Manhattan and St. John's.

A 97-53 romp Thursday night over Regis College gave Dayton a modest 15-7 record for the season. Off to a bad start in a rebuilding season, Coach Tom Blackburn's Flyers now have won eight of their last nine games, including the last five straight, in an 11th-hour bid for glory.

Manhatten, St. John's Win

Manhattan and St. John's, likely to represent New York City in the Madison Square Garden post-season carnival, each registered a solid victory at that arena Thursday night to enhance its prestige.

Manhattan, winner of the Holiday Festival Tournament, Christmas week, pushed its record to 11-5 with an easy 93-78 victory over New York U. as Angelo Lombardo led the way with 34 points. Danny Knapp scored 27 in a vain effort for the Violets.

St. John's moved its record to 12-6 with a 71-67 conquest of Niagara. The Redmen nearly blew an 11-point lead, but Al Seiden's three-point play with a minute left proved the clincher. Alex (Boo) Ellis notched 27 points for Niagara.

In other leading games Thursday night: Denver kept its Skyline Conference hopes alive with a 55-53 squeaker over Montana; Georgia Tech nipped Georgia, 67-65, in the Southeastern Conference; and St. Francis (N.Y.) handed St. Peter's its second loss of the season, 87-80.

PCC Tussle Resumes

The hot title race in the Pacific Coast Conference vies for the headlines tonight with several other games featuring the nation's top teams.

California, ranked No. 9 nationally, risking its 8-0 PCC record in the first of two games against Idaho while second-place UCLA (7-1), ranked N. 6 nationally, goes up against more dangerous Stanford.

Third-ranked Kentucky faces Loyola (Ill.) and Bradley (No. 5) plays Loyola (La.) in a Chicago Stadium twin bill; Brigham Young (No. 15) hopes to build its Skyline Conference lead against Colorado A&M; 20th-ranked Temple plays Duquesne; and NIT-bound Seattle hosts Gonzaga.

Two Steubenville College Cagers Are Suspended

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (UP)—Two star players on the Steubenville College basketball team have been suspended by coach Hank Kuzma for insubordination.

Kuzma disclosed Thursday he dismissed Frank Sapienza and Paul Kearns between halves in Wednesday night's game which Steubenville lost to Youngstown, 78-59. Both players are seniors.

There have been reports of friction on the squad, but Kuzma refused to comment on them.

"There were just some things which came to a head between halves at Youngstown and that was it," he said. "It's regrettable, but that's all I could do."

Sapienza, who played with St. James High School in Pittsburgh, scored 265 points this season and had scored 907 points in three previous seasons.

Kearns, of McKeesport, Pa., scored 121 points this season and had scored 1,006 points in three previous seasons

Earlier this month, the Barons had lost John Flowers, a sophmore and the team's second leading scorer, and Dave Stasiulewicz, a second-stringer, because of scholastic deficiences. Both are sophomores.

Sapienza and Kearns played for Kuzma in the 1954-55 season, when the Barons won 29 and lost five, and the 1955-56 season, when their record was 24-4.

This season the team has won 13 and lost seven.

Palumbo Scores 43 For Slippery Rock

SLIPPERY ROCK, Pa. (UP)—Connie Palumbo scored 43 points for Slippery Rock Thursday night to set a school scoring record and lead the Rockets to a 91-88 victory over Indiana

The Rockets led at halftime, 48-38, but after eight minutes of the second half Indiana pulled ahead, 58-57. The lead changed hands several times after that. With two seconds remaining the Rockets took an 89-88 edge and then dropped in two foul shots.

Jack Bizyak was high for Indiana with 24 points.

125 Mile NASCAR Race Today at Daytona Beach

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UP)—Approximately 90 cars and their drivers will be gunning to beat last year's record 89.41 miles per hour set by Tim Flock of Atlanta today in the 125-mile Sportsman's Modified NASCAR race over Daytona Beach's 4 1-mile beach and road course.

By warming up for that event many drivers got the feel of the local beach course in Thursday's Flying Two-Mile race for the "big three" low priced cars. Henry (Smokey) Yunick of Daytona Beach gunned his regulation Chevrolet to the fastest time, but he was disqualified when officials discovered he had over-sized tires on one side of his machine.

Chevrolets tock the top three positions in the race for 1957 Chevrolets, Fords and Plymouths on the hard-packed beach straightaway. Al Simonsen of Cambridge, Wis., who actually finished second in 118.460 mph compared to Yunick's 119.403 mph, was the official winner. He was followed by Lonnie Hilliard of Palatka, Fla., in 115.849, and Ned Decker of Sherwood, Ohio, in 113 852.

Steeler Coach Leaves Hospital

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Pittsburgh Steelers coach Walter Kiesling was released Thursday from Mercy Hospital where he had been under observation for several days.

The football coach's physician said the report was favorable and he prescribed only a different diet.

Kretlow Favored In Golf Tourney Of Ball Players

MIAMI, Fla. (UP)—Righthanded pitcher Lou Kretlow of the Kansas City Athletics, the defending champion, was the solid favorite today when a field that included "most valuable players" Mickey Mantle and Don Newcombe opened play in the National Baseball Players Golf Tournament.

An 18-hold medal round was scheduled today and then the field of 111 will pair off into match play by divisions for two rounds each on Saturday and Sunday.

Kretlow's chief rivals in the 39-players big league division were expected to be shortstop Alvin Dark of the St. Louis Cardinals, Manager Al Lopez of the Chicago White Sox, and pitcher Johnny Gray of Kansas City, last year's medalist.

Jack Russell, former St. Louis Cardinal pitcher, is defending his title in the inactive major league division and Art Summerfield of Toronto is the defending champion in the minor league division, where he has 16 foes.

'Advance Guards' at Spring Training Sites

By UNITED PRESS

Spring training won't start officially for another two weeks but the "advance guard" of the diamond horde already is hard at work.

The "advance guard" — consisting mostly of batterymen and top prospects from minor league farms — got down to serious business Thursday when both the world champion New York Yankees and the St. Louis Cardinals opened their rookie acceleration schools.

And, today, the New York Giants' contingent of 20 players, coaches, etc., begins "boiling out" in the Buckhorn Mineral Baths at Mesa, Ariz.

With the week, they'll be joined by just about every other major league club eager to lay the groundwork for fast getaways when the March 1 spring training deadline is reached.

Stengel Welcomes 12

Manager Casey Stengel welcomed 12 players to the Yankees' rookie school which has produced such stars as Bob Grim and Johnny Kucks. Stengel said he hoped to come up with an additional pitcher from this year's group and the No. 1 prospect, so far, is Al Cicotte, a 15-game winner with Richmond of the International League last season.

The Cardinals, who also train at St. Petersburg, Fla., came out 27 strong under the eyes of Manager Fred Hutchinson and his staff. Hutchinson broke the players in Thursday during the hottest part of the day but has scheduled regular workouts for 9.30 in the morning.

Giants In Camp

Six pitchers, three catchers and a group of other players including Red Schoendienst, Dusty Rhodes, Hank Thompson, Don Mueller and Hank Sauer were in Mesa along with Manager Bill Rigney and his Giant staff.

On other fronts:

Tom Gorman, who had a 9-10 record and 3.82 earned run average, signed with the Kansas City Athletics along with pitchers Glenn Cox and Carl Duser and infielders Mike Baxes and Rance Pless. The Athletics now have 31 players under contract.

Outfielder Gale Wade signed with the Chicago Cubs bringing their satisfied list to 32 and infielder Milt Bolling and pitcher Russ Kemmerer agreed to terms with the Boston Red Sox.

Yawkey Selected For Heart Award

BOSTON (UP) —Boston Red Sox owner Tom Yawkey has been chosen by the Variety Club of New England for its Great Heart Award for 1957. The award is presented each year to the person "who has done the greatest amount of good will for the greatest number of people." Yawkey will receive the award at a banquet here on April 14.

Panthers Beat Steeler Cagers

BEAVER FALLS, Pa. (UP)—The Pitt Gridders defeated the Pittsburgh Steeler Gridders, 68-65, Thursday night in a benefit basketball game for the Dick Kadis Fund.

The game, sponsored by the Beaver Valley Coaches Association, netted $240 for the fund which will help pay the medical expenses for Kadis, the Geneva College football player hospitalized with a serious brain injury suffered in a game last September.

Dick Groat, Pittsburgh Pirates shortstop playing for the Steelers, was the game's high scorer with 33 points. Joe Walton, Pitt's All-America end and former Beaver Falls star, led the college boys with 18 points.

Presque Isle Park Recreation Center Planned

ERIE, Pa. (UP)— State and local officials have revealed plans aimed at making Presque Isle Park one of the finest recreation centers in the East.

New facilities will include a four-lane "boulevard type" road, 13 large beach pavilions and a yacht club mooring facility.

The pavilions, three of which will be constructed this year, will contain bath houses, concessions, first aid stations, and life guard and sanitation facilities.

Demand Is Greater for Top Executives in Business Field

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP) — Executives, awake! Get those feet down off that desk. Take some benzedrine, or something. A clarion is calling loud and clear.

You, too, can better yourself.

Dig this headline: "Good Men Hard To Find For Top - Brass Jobs." The story says that in today's expanding industry there's a "mad market" in executives.

Story in hand, we loped over to the firm of Handy Associates and into the carefully upholstered, deskless office of John L. Handy himself. Handy has been manhunting for 15 years—for executives. His is a firm of executive recruiters, a sort of rich bossman's employment agency.

Like Quiz Show

The story was, indeed, correct, Handy said. The demand is "infinitely greater" than in pre-World War II days. Handy has placed about 1,300 executives in the last 15 years. Last year he filled three presidencies, one with a salary-plus-bonus of $90,000.

The Handy office keeps a weird, almost secret-police, tab on American industry, from soup to nuts. Electronic machines quiver and spit facts. Some 75,000 candidates and contacts among boss-men are catalogued and IBM carded.

To illustrate, a girl picked up a whopping stack of cards from the "marketing executives" file, each card with 25 factors of selection built in. She placed them into a card-sorting machine just like the one you see on The $64,000 Question TV show.

At the press of a button, executives came tumbling down like leaves of brown — in card form — into slots marked $10,000-$12,000; $12,000-$15,000; and so on up to "over $75,000."

Suggests Job Shifts

Handy said one of the reasons for the increased demand was "the coming of age of small business—in years past they always felt they couldn't afford executives of the big-business caliber, but now they're plowing back some profits in incentive plans to give these fellows greater benefits."

He said that in many cases he has advised young men to shift jobs every two years to get a broad executive background—"Three companies by age 40 is a good rule, in general, I think."

Well, might as well take the bull by the horns.

"Look, Mr. Handy. What if a man like me—with two buttons off his overcoat, wearing an old-fashioned striped suit, with one seam of his right shoe suffering gaposis, but intelligent looking—what if I came in and said, 'I'd like to be considered as an executive?' What would you say?"

Handy seemed overcome by something or other. "Harrumphh! Abkwwkumf! Duhkumph — owf!" He pointed out.

Would Compel Polio Shots

HARRISBURG . (UP)—Legislation to make anti-polio shots mandatory for school children will be introduced in the General Assembly next week, House Speaker W. Stuart Helm said today.

The proposed legislation, which will be sponsored by Reps. Marian E. Markley (R-Lehigh) and James J. Jump (R-Luzerne), would amend the public school code to require a certificate of immunization for admittance to any private, parochial or public school in the state after Sept. 1, 1957.

The measure directs the state Health Department to make available "a sufficient quantity" of Salk vaccine to implement the large scale inoculation program which would be required.

Americans in the Antarctic Have Big Sleeping Problem

McMURDO SOUND (UP) — The 24-hour-a-day sunshine of the Antarctic summer has changed life-long sleeping routines for some of the 300 Americans here and created McMurdo Sound's "Big Eye Club."

The "big eye," is the name given to the inability of some of the men to readjust themselves to the endless days in the Antarctic. No one knows just how it got its name, but it aptly describes the wide-eyed look of the "members" who wander around this base "in the middle of the night," unable to sleep.

Despite their windowless sleeping quarters, some of McMurdo residents are unable to sleep with the sun shining brightly outside. During the Antarctic summer, the sun turns in a circle, never setting, and the men work or play on into the early hours of the morning. Sleep finally comes to them when they are almost exhausted.

The meeting - place for the "club" is the comfortable mess-hall where they congregate in the "wee small hours" to drink coffee and talk. Sometimes they can watch a "big eye movie" screened for thier entertainment.

No Chance To Adjust

One of the reasons for the prevalence of "big eye" among some of the more recent arrivals by air, is the lack of any transitory period from the "civilized world" where the sun sets around 6 P. M.

On previous Antarctic expeditions, the transition was made gradually over a period of weeks as the ships made their way down here from the northern latitudes. As the ships moved through darkness into twilight and then broad daylight, the men were able to work themselves into some routine.

Nowadays, the USAF Globemaster flights from Christchurch, New Zealand, 2,250 miles north, cover the distance in 11 hours, leaving no time to get accustomed to the "midnight sun."

The Antarctic "commuters" arrive here around 9 A. M. when the base is starting the day's activity, after losing a night's sleep. The cold, dry atmosphere of the Antarctic prevents them from drowsing.

Trouble In Winter

To go to sleep after arrival is to help "big eye" get started. When you wake up after this sleep, you find yourself so refreshed that it's difficult to get to sleep that "night." This is the big factor that usually contributes to "big eye."

The Antarctic sleeplessness, however, is not confined to the 24-hour sunshine of the summer. During the winter, when the reverse occurs — darkness for 24 hours — the "big eye" also takes hold.

A number of the Operation Deepfreeze I wintering-over personnel experienced it during the winter after they had completed the first of their major tasks — erection of the camp buildings.

Lt. Comdr. Isaac M. Taylor, Chapel Hill, N. C., the tall medical officer at McMurdo who cared for the 93 men who wintered over, said their sleeplessness was "compounded of restlessness." He explained that when the men completed the big construction task, they had time to stop and think what was going to happen during the three long months of darkness that lay ahead of them.

Taylor said the men did not have "big eye" when work was started on the ice runway. Working a sub-sero temperatures on 12-hour shifts, they really needed sleep when they came up from the strip site on the bay-ice of Erebus Bay in McMurdo Sound.

One of the biggest problems for "big eye" victims is keeping track of the days of the week and whether it is A. M. or P. M. One Air Force flyer who returned from a 10-hour flight to the South Pole around 4 P. M., went to sleep. He woke up seven hours later, glanced at his watch, walked outside and prepared to go to the messhall for lunch.
